Silver Question Is Again to Fore In U.S. Congress

Bill Would Make White Metal Legal Tender at Fixed Ratio—Has Little Likelihood of Being Enacted—Proponents of Bimetalism Plan United Study of Problem

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (CP).—The question of restoring the buying power of silver received the attention of Congress again today, when Representative Evans, of Montana, announced he would introduce a bill to make silver legal tender for gold at sixteen to one.

A similar measure was introduced in the Senate a few days ago by Senator Wheeler of Montana.

Neither has the remotest chance of being enacted into law.

GROUPS ARE UNITING

Representative Evans also announced that within a few days a group of Western legislators would meet in his office to discuss the silver problem. The developments are noteworthy as indicating there may be a prospect of cohesion among the silver group upon a definite programme and as showing a more radical tendency among the silver advocates who now come out boldly for bimetallism. Up to the present an infinite variety of proposals for rehabilitating silver have come from Senators Smoot, Wheeler, Pittman, King, Dill, and others.

But however energetic the silver group may show themselves, there is slight possibility of any governmental action. President Hoover did not act upon the suggestion of the Senate last year that he call an international conference to discuss the situation.

WILL NOT BE ISSUE

Silver strength comes largely from silver producing states, and although it may prove valuable in election campaigns in those sections, there is no indication it can be made a country-wide issue again as it was in the days of William Jennings Bryan. After Bryan's defeat the Democratic party declared for the gold standard.

The question of what is responsible for the fall in the price of silver was raised again today by Chairman Somers of the House coinage committee. Somers proposed a further investigation.

SAY LIEN LAWS ARE DETERRENT

Delegation Asks Government to Revise Forestry and Taxation Acts

Prior right of the Province to retrain goods purchased on conditional sales agreements for failure by the agreement purchasers to pay taxes due to the Crown was asked by a delegation of the British Columbia Division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association yesterday, in strongly pressed representations to the Provincial Government. The legislation complained of exists under forestry and taxation laws and has been enforced for many years.

Introduced by F. C. Brown, chairman of the British Columbia Division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, a representative group of Vancouver and Victoria business men spoke to the issue. They urged recognition of the rights of private lienholders under the Conditional Sales Act or, alternatively, repeal of exisitng seizure provisions contained in Section 126 of the Forest Act and Section 143 of the Taxation Act.

Existing legislation, the delegation claimed, bore heavily on loggers and those who supplied them with machinery. Such goods are sold usually on time agreements, and the threat of forfeiture because purchasers might default in taxes made vendors chary of extending credit in such sales, or making sales on a time basis, with only a lien as security for the goods. The delegation quoted a number of examples of the working of the present regulations, and urged reconsideration of the law as it stands.

Harold B. Elworthy, Walter Miles and T. J. Goodlake were Victoria delegates among those present. Many Vancouver manufacturers appeared in person to support the arguments of the delegation. The Canadian Manufacturers' Association, declared Mr. Brown, had been fighting for ten years to secure a readjustment of the equity rights involved, without depriving the Province of its proper recourse against delinquent taxpayers. Careful consideration was promised by the Cabinet.

JUGOSLAVIA HAS NEW GOVERNMENT

By JOHN GUNTHER
(Copyright, 1932, by The Chicago Daily News Foreign Service)

VIENNA, Austria, Jan. 5.—Premier Pera Zivkovitch, of Jugoslavia, formed a new Government at 11 o'clock this morning in Belgrade, following a brief Cabinet crisis caused by his resignation yesterday. The Government remains unchanged, Belgrade reports say, except for minor reshuffilngs.

A new Cabinet was necessary because the last Zivkovitch Government, formed in September, 1931, had been given a mandate only for the duration of the elections.

There have been reports of tension between King Alexander and Mr. Zivkovitch, but these are negated by the choice of Mr. Zivkovitch by the King for the third time to be his Premier.

LENZ AGAIN LOWERS LEAD

Culbertson and New Partner Drop 2,660 Points in Bridge Series

By LT. ALFRED M. GRUENTHER, U.S.A. Chief Referee, Culbertson-Lenz Bridge Tournament.
(Copyright, 1932, by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Sidney Lenz and Commander Winfield Liggett, Jr., made another comeback in their contract bridge tournament with Ely Culbertson and his temporary partner, Michael T. Gottlieb. Winning six of the eight rubbers played they gained 2,660 points.

Ely Culbertson and his assortment of partners are now leading by 14,175 points. Thirteen rubbers remain to be played, and if the Lenz-Liggett combination can reduce the Culbertson lead below 10,000 points they will have reason to feel proud of their teamwork.

Play will be resumed Thursday evening, with the final session scheduled for Friday.

Gottlieb is a member of the younger generation of bridge experts. He plays the game purely as a pastime. He remarked tonight that this was the first time in more than two years that he had played with Mr. Culbertson.

This lack of practice did not seem to interfere with their co-ordination. They spoke the same language throughout. Incidentally Mr. Gottlieb played his cards faster than any partner Mr. Culbertson has had, thus speeding the game up considerably.

Sidney Lenz and Commander Winfield Liggett, Jr., were in a much more cheerful frame of mind after their spurt Monday evening.

Each time Culbertson has introduced a new male partner into this contest the newcomer has succeeded in making a game. Mr. Gottlieb was no exception though he needed the kindly co-operation of his ad-

GUESTS SLEEP AS FIRE IS FOUGHT

Log Chateau of Lucerne-In-Quebec Community Burns for Seven Hours

LUCERNE, Que., Jan. 5 (CP).—The roof and some of the furnishings of the log chateau of the Lucerne-In-Quebec Community Association suffered damages estimated at $20,000 in an early morning fire today.

Some forty guests were asleep in the chateau at the time. Some aided the fire fighters in removing valuable furniture from the main hall, while others slept through undisturbed. The Seignior Club fire rangers fought the outbreak for seven hours before extinguishing it. There were no injuries.

In a statement issued at Montreal, Hon. Charles A. Dunning, vice-president of the association, stated that the log chateau would continue to be available to members of the club and guests.

It was understood the fire started through the overheating of a large seven-sided fireplace which rests in the central rotunda of the chateau.

WET-DRY ISSUE MAY SPLIT PARTY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Democrats were warned tonight by Chairman John J. Raskob, of the national committee, to find a common meeting ground on prohibition or face a North and South split on a third party.

In a letter to members of the Democratic national committee, he advanced as a solution a constitutional amendment providing for state control of liquor, which he has proposed under the title of a "home rule" plan.

Intensive Search For Escaped Trio Is Without Avail

Col. J. H. McMullin, Commissioner of B.C. Police, Takes Charge of Investigation Into Oakalla Prison Break—Many Reports Prove Fruitless in Hunt for William Bagley

VANCOUVER, Jan. 5 (CP).—With the search for William Bagley, Frank Sorge and Gordon Fawcett, convicts who escaped from Oakalla Jail Sunday night, extending beyond the international boundary, Vancouver and Provincial Police tonight were still keeping watchful eyes on suspected areas in the city.

ITALIAN KING IS DECORATED

Pope Confers Highest Honor of Church on Monarch and Prince

By RALPH E. FORTE

ROME, Jan. 5.—Today Pope Pius XI conferred the highest decoration of the Catholic Church on King Victor Emmanuel of Italy, namely, that of Chevalier of the Supreme Order of Christ.

Since 1878, only thirteen men have received such an honor, the last previous recipient being Senor Augusto B. Leguia, when he was president of the Republic of Peru about three years ago.

Mgr. Borgoncini-Duca, pontifical legate to the Italian Government, went to the King's palace at 11 o'clock this morning, where he informed His Majesty that the Pope had decided to name him and the hereditary Prince Humbert chevaliers of the church's most cherished order.

PRINCE IS ABSENT

Prince Humbert is temporarily away from the city indulging in Winter sports in the mountains of Abruzzi and the new title will be conferred on his return.

Today's honors are the first the Pope has designed to bestow on Italians during his pontificate. The last native Italian to receive such a title was Prince Alessandro Ruspoli of Rome, ten years ago, from Benedict XV.

ANTI-DRY DEMOCRAT WINS CONGRESS SEAT

MANCHESTER, N.H., Jan. 5.—William N. Rogers, anti-prohibition Democrat, today was elected to the congressional seat made vacant by the death of Representative Fletcher Hale, Republican, of the first New Hampshire district, defeating former Governor John F. Bartlett, Republican, 27,453 to 24,505.

BOUNDARY TREATY SIGNED

ISTANBUL, Jan. 5 (AP).—A Turco-Italian treaty, amicably ending the conflict over the islands between Castellorizo and the Anatolian coast was signed at Angora yesterday, according to an official communique issued today. The communique said the treaty fixes the Turco-Italian maritime boundary to the full satisfaction of both parties.

Kitsilano Indian Reserve, where the three fugitives are believed to have been seen Monday, was still under close guard in the hope that the sixty-acre patch of dense brush might yet yield some trace of the convicts.

Other developments in the man hunt today were:

TAKES PERSONAL CHARGE

International co-operation was being arranged in the event that Bagley and his two companions eluded the police cordon thrown around the city.

Theory that the three fugitives still at large had made their escape by water was being developed by police officers, who were investigating reports that one or more boats had been recently stolen on the North Arm of the Fraser.

Police were strengthening and extending a chain of heavily armed

Says Agreement Reached on Wheat Quota and Flour Duty

LONDON, Jan. 6 (CP).—The News Chronicle today said British millers, farmers and corn merchants have agreed to the Government's scheme for a quota on wheat importations on condition that a duty be placed on flour imports with either preference or a quota in favor of Empire products.

The newspaper said further discussions on the wheat question were held and the three interested groups came to an agreement on the scheme which they claim will be acceptable to the Government.

The News Chronicle said the machinery for the operation of the plan had been agreed upon also.

It is urged the adoption of a preference on flour from the Dominions removes the objections on Canadian flour exporters and at the same time satisfies the British farmer, who believes his feeding stuffs will be cheaper as a result of increased home production.

Canadian Securities To Be Legal Backing In U.S. Credit Scheme

Unique Status Given Dominion Government and Corporation Bonds by Senate Subcommittee Amendment—Only Nation So Recognized

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5.—Striking evidence of confidence in Canadian securities was given by a United States Senate banking subcommittee today. The committee added an amendment to the bill embodying President Hoover's proposed gigantic reconstruction finance corporation, allowing loans and advances to financial institutions of this country on the backing of the Dominion's securities.

Both Canadian Government and Canadian corporation securities are accorded this unique status. No other foreign Government or foreign corporation securities are given the recognition extended to the Dominion.

The proposal, approved in bill form today by the subcommittee, seeks to infuse new life to the extent of $2,000,000,000 worth of credit into the industrial and commercial arteries of the United States. The full committee later gave its endorsement and the measure goes to the Senate tomorrow Leaders forecast quick passage.

HUGE CREDIT ORGANIZATION

The corporation would be established with a governmental capitalization of $500,000,000. Its purpose would be to extend loans and credits to banks, insurance companies and other bona fide financial institutions in need of such accommodations. It has authority to issue bonds up to $1,500,000,000, and the Treasury is authorized, if necessary, to buy or sell these bonds.

The amendment singling out recognition of Canadian securities and excluding those of all other countries was that "no loans or advances shall be made on securities issued by foreign Governments or corporations, except those of the Dominion of Canada and of Canadian corporations or for the purpose of assisting in the carrying or liquidation" of such securities as collateral.

C.P.R. PRESIDENT GIVES EVIDENCE

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 (CP).—President E. W. Beatty of the Canadian Pacific Railway gave evidence throughout this afternoon's sitting of the transportation commission. When the inquiry body concluded its session in camera this evening there was no official statement to make.

An executive meeting of the commission will take place tomorrow morning; and while further evidence is expected to be adduced at the afternoon sitting, the witnesses to be called have not yet been decided upon.

A possibility exists that the members of the commission may still decide to adhere to the original plan to proceed to the Maritime Provinces next week. This matter is expected to be discussed by the commissioners under the chairman, Mr. Justice L. P. Duff, of the Supreme Court of Canada, sometime tomorrow afternoon. The itinerary for the Maritime Provinces has not yet been drafted.

In circles well informed, there is little expectation that the commission will prepare an interim report of its findings before the end of March.

MOVE SOUTH AND EXTEND DOMINATION

Japanese Army Masters of All South Manchuria—Pursue Irregulars

FOUR JAPANESE ARE KILLED IN ACTION

MUKDEN, Jan. 5 (AP).—The Japanese army moved today to extend its domination over all South Manchuria as far as Shanhaikwan, which is within China proper.

A brigade commanded by General Yorida moved south from Chinchow, occupying stations along the British-owned Mukden-Peiping Railway, down which the Chinese made their hurried retreat when the Japanese cleared them out of Chinchow.

ADMINISTRATIVE SCHEME

Under the new Japanese military plan the district west of Liao River will be commanded by General Muro, whose division includes Chinchow. The district east of Liao will be under the administration of Lieut.-General Tamon, conqueror of Tsitsihar and Kowpangtze, who has set up permanent headquarters at Liaoyang.

The realignment of troops to fit into this new administrative scheme is expected to be completed within a few days, and then the two units will settle down to a Winter expected to bring many brushes with irregular Chinese troops.

CASUALTIES IN DRIVE

A drive got under way today against irregulars in the Hsinmintun area, where at least four Japanese were killed and six wounded in two skirmishes last night. The Chinese lost from thirty to forty men.

The two soldiers involved in the attack Sunday on Culver B. Chamberlain, American Consul, were confined to barracks today but were not imprisoned. Meanwhile, military investigation of the attack continued.

Ten Thousand Suffering as Flood Surges

GLENDORA, Miss., Jan. 5.—The third crest of the three weeks' flood along the Tallahatchie River surged through the valley today, burst one major levee, threatened to sweep aside others and brought added hardships to 10,000 sufferers.

Flood fighters at Glendora regarded the situation as out of control at nightfall, and many expressed fear that destruction of principal dykes in Tallahatchie County is inevitable.

With water already running over the top, Cassidy's Bayou levee at the plantation of Aubrey Falls caved in today and sent a great stream of water through a twenty-foot crevasse over fertile farmland between Swan Lake and Webb.

Approximately 2,000 persons remained in their houses on Cassidy's Bayou plantations. They are surrounded by water and are in danger of famine and disease.

Thorough Round-Up of Nationalist Leaders Is Started by Government

Civil Disobedience Campaign in India Being Met Without Hesitation With Full Use of Extraordinary Powers—Numerous Organizations Placed Outside Law and Leaders Arrested

BOMBAY, Jan. 6 (AP).—The Government began a sweeping round-up of India's Nationalist leaders today under extraordinary powers to meet the civil disobedience campaign. Vithalbhai Patel, former president of the Indian Legislative Assembly, and others prominent in the outlawed Nationalist Congress, were arrested by police, who moved quickly from place to place.

The Government previously had extended to four important cities and to the entire Madras Presidency its emergency ordinances outlawing the All-India National Congress Party, led by the jailed Mahatma Gandhi, forbidding all contributions to its funds and prohibiting demonstrations and peaceful picketing.

Among those taken into custody were K. F. Mariman and Magindas Master, president and vice-president respectively of the local Congress executive committee.

OUTSIDE THE LAW

Bombay, Calcutta, New Delhi and Ajmer, Rajputania, are among the cities affected by extension of the Government's stringent measures. In Calcutta alone, forty-five organizations were placed outside the law by the extension of the emergency ordinances.

Numerous arrests have resulted from the application of the Government's ordinances, but equally important is the move to dry up the sources of the Nationalists' revenue. In the past some wealthy millowners and merchants have been liberal in their contributions.

PRESS BOYCOTT

While the Government mobilized its resources, the followers of the Mahatma pressed their boycott on British goods.

From his Yeroda jail Gandhi issued an appeal for the support of the Christians of India, urging them to adopt the spinning wheel and homespun garments, and to renounce drink.

As an "act of reprisal" against the arrest of the Mahatma and other leaders, the Nationalists decided to boycott the three committees of the Round Table Conference, due from London late in the month.

WOMEN PROMINENT

Meanwhile, anti-Government demonstrations continued, with women "shock troops" playing a prominent part in them. While their husbands and brothers carried on their struggle against tax payments and began illicit manufacture of salt, the women attempted to induce the public not to buy British goods and not to purchase liquor or narcotics.

Casting Vote of Returning Officer Decides Election

FORT ERIE, Ont., Jan. 5.—W. J. Hawley was named first Mayor of Fort Erie today when W. C. Tait, returning officer, cast the deciding vote in his favor. Hawley was the former treasurer of Fort Erie village. He was tied with Harry Hall, former Bridgeburg mayor, with 546 votes upon the completion of the count of ballots last night.

"I'm perfectly satisfied with the result," Hall said. "So far as I am concerned there will be no recount."

BANDIT GIVES UP THE LOOT

Restoration Made of Nearly Three Million Dollars' Worth of Bonds

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Jan. 5.—A notorious bank robber and gangster restored today virtually all the $2,870,000 loot of the greatest bank robbery in history.

Agents for the Lincoln National Bank and Trust Company of Lincoln, Neb., were handed negotiable securities worth $583,000. Gus Winkler, the bandit absolved of any implication in the robbery, has already supplied proof of the destruction of registered bonds with a value of $2,217,000, making possible the issuance of new certificates.

The finale occurred late today in the offices of the "Secret Six," where Sergeant Roy Steffens turned the recovered loot over to W. E. Barkley, a director of the bank, in the presence of the county attorney, Max Towle, of Lincoln.

Where they had been cached, from whom Winkler obtained them, remains a secret. Thus Winkler kept his pledge.

VOWED HIS INNOCENCE

Captured near Benton Harbor, Mich., after an accident that cost him the sight of one eye, he vowed his innocence of the Lincoln robbery but was taken to the Nebraska capital, where already two of the bandits were in jail, now serving twenty-five-year penitentiary terms.

His friends dug up $100,000 bond. Winkler came to Chicago and, through his attorneys, promised to recover the stolen bonds if Nebraska dropped his prosecution. He wanted to be "washed up."

He had an alibi, and the officers checked his story and found it true. The robbery indictment was dismissed.

LUMBER SHOWS UPWARD TREND

Some Mills Reopen and Loggers Add to Crews Engaged in Province

Brighter prospects in the British Columbia lumber industry are seen in the near future, it was stated yesterday by Hon. N. S. Lougheed, Minister of Lands. Several mills are reopening and logging companies are commencing to add more men to their payrolls, in consequence of an improved trend in the business, he declared.

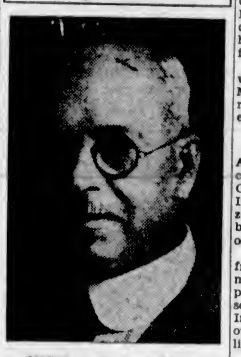

Reopening of operations by the Comox Logging & Railway Company, large scale operators on the east coast of Vancouver Island, and resumption of operations by several Island mills has given a brighter outlook to those engaged here in the industry.

Meanwhile the volume of inquiries for export movements is holding and some increase has been noticed in the total volume of inquiries received, it is stated.

FINLAND'S FINAL COUNT

HELSINGFORS, Jan. 5 (AP).—The final count in Finland's referendum on prohibition, as announced today, showed 70.45 per cent of the votes for repeal of the prohibition law, 28.14 per cent for retaining the law and 1.41 per cent for a modified programme of wine and beer.

Will Be Present at Inaugural Meeting

MAYOR LOUIS D. TAYLOR will attend the inaugural meeting of the 1932 City Council today. He will make the trip from St. Paul's Hospital, where he is a patient, to the City Hall in his official automobile. Dr. R. E. McKechnie, his physician, has stated that he believes the Mayor is capable of making the visit to the City Hall.

DECORATION IS TO BE CHANGED

War Office Devises New Awards for Long and Honorable Service

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 (CP).—A new officers' decoration and a medal for other ranks common to the non-permanent militia and territorial forces of the whole Empire have been devised by the War Office and will replace the various awards which, from time to time, have been granted for long and honorable service. The "V.D." or "Volunteer Decoration" for officers and the old "Colonial Auxiliary Forces' Long Service Medal" will disappear in Canada, their place taken by the "Efficiency Decoration" for officers and the "Efficiency Medal" for other ranks. The "Efficiency Decoration" will entitle the recipients to append the "E.D." to their rank and name.

TAKES TWENTY YEARS

Twenty years on the active list, of which ten years spent in the ranks may count, with double time conceded for war service, constitute the requirements for the "E.D.," but officers who have already been awarded the "V.D." are not entitled to count the service they spent for this award as qualifying them for the "E.D."

For the "Efficiency Medal" twelve years' efficient service are required, including twelve annual trainings. Clasps will be awarded on completion of eighteen years and twenty-four years' service. All service must be continuous, except in special circumstances provided for in the Royal Warrant or defined by regulations.

THE RIBANDS

The riband of the "E.D." is green, with a yellow stripe down the centre; that of the "Efficiency Medal" is green with yellow stripes down the edges.

Pending the establishment of local regulations for Canada, the award of the two new honors will be effective in this country as from September 23, 1931.

Fourteen Miners Buried by Shock

BEUTHEN, Germany, Jan. 5. (AP).—Fourteen miners who were entombed when a coal pit caved in yesterday, due to earth shocks, were officially given up for dead today, although the bodies were not recovered.

MAKE ARRESTS IN LISBON RAID

Arms Also Seized at Oporto on Suspicion of Impending Revolution

LISBON, Jan. 5 (AP).—Two hundred persons were arrested and bombs, rifles and revolvers were seized in a series of raids at Oporto tonight on suspicion a revolutionary movement was impending.

A quantity of dynamite was found in the cellars of the Sao Joao Theatre, destined, police said, for destruction of the Dom Louis bridge across the Duoro River.

Although Governor Costa Lobo telephoned the Ministry of Interior here that the insurgency had been averted, a dangerous situation was reported developing throughout Portugal, attributed partly to the economic situation and to an uncertain political outlook.

The Cabinet of President Oscar Carmona has been holding daily sessions to complete a new constitutional project, on which a national referendum is to be taken. District and communal elections have been announced for next Autumn, indicating the authorities intended to restore constitutional government.

SEARCHING FOR MISSING FLYERS

Society Aviatrix and Passenger Disappear in Flight Through Mountains in Pennsylvania

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 5 (AP).—A widespread search throughout Eastern Pennsylvania was being made tonight for Mrs. Ruth Stewart, St. Louis society aviatrix, and her passenger, Debbie Stanford, Toronto, who were last seen flying toward New York at Sterret'a Gap, in the mountains about fifteen miles northwest of here.

They were en route from St. Louis to New York.

Centry Shelton, St. Louis, who was flying another plane with Mrs. Stewart's ship, said they had flown together from Pittsburgh as far as Sterret'a Gap. His plane went into some fog there, he said, and when it came out Mrs. Stewart was out of sight.

He has been unable to find the plane at any New York airport.

They left Pittsburgh shortly after noon today.

Shelton, after missing Mrs. Stewart, landed his plane here.

Back to Land Movement Already Well Established

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 (CP).—"The back to the land movement has been in progress for some time," declared a high official of the Immigration Department here tonight, when shown the Vancouver dispatch wherein T. D. Pattullo, British Columbia Liberal leader, advocated the adoption of this policy by the Dominion Government and the railways.

The Federal and Provincial Governments and the two national transportation systems have all been co-operating and collaborating in this movement, it was declared. As a consequence, more than 12,000 persons—men, women and children—have been settled on the land in Canada within the past nine months. These people were transferred from the crowded urban areas and placed on land without any cost to the Government, the official said.

Hon. Wesley A. Gordon, Minister of Immigration, could not be reached tonight for comment on Mr. Pattullo's remarks.

COMMUNIST NOT WANTED

Court of Appeal Rules Presence of Ronald Stewart Not Required

Ronald C. C. Stewart, former leader of Victoria's group of Communists, will not be permitted to appear in person when his appeal is heard before the British Columbia Court of Appeal at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. He will, however, be represented by counsel, Gordon Grant, of Vancouver.

Stewart's appeal was to have been heard at the opening session of the appeal court yesterday morning and consequently a large number of his sympathizers were present in the hope of seeing the youthful prisoner, whose spectacular trial at the last Assize Court here attracted wide interest.

MUTINY CHARGE

Stewart was convicted on October 8 and was sentenced to two years by Mr. Justice Murphy following a verdict of guilty by a jury. The charge upon which he was tried was that of attempting to incite His Majesty's forces to mutiny and with distributing seditious literature. He conducted his own defence from the prisoner's box and was given wide latitude by the presiding judge in his examination of witnesses.

D. S. Tait appeared before the appeal court yesterday morning on behalf of Mr. Grant, counsel for Stewart, and asked for the appeal to be stood over until Monday next, in order that the prisoner might be present. Mr. Tait produced and read a letter from Mr. Grant setting out the reasons for his request.

A. M. Johnson, K.C., who appeared for the Crown, strongly objected to the case being set over to Monday next and also to the prisoner being brought over to attend the hearing of the appeal. Mr. Johnson said that the appeal had been before His Lordship the Chief Justice on three previous occasions, and had not been carried on. He said the Crown did not wish to go to the expense of bringing the prisoner over from the Mainland when he was represented by counsel.

COURT RULES

Chief Justice J. A. Macdonald ruled that Mr. Grant should have been present in court yesterday morning to explain his reasons for delay and his request to have the prisoner present. He asked Mr. Tait if he had any answer to the objection raised by Mr. Johnson and Mr. Tait said he had not been instructed. The court then set the date of hearing for Thursday and the Chief Justice said: "The prisoner will not be required to come here."

Stewart had previously endeavored to obtain a hearing on the grounds that there had been a misdirection and nondirection of the jury by the trial judge, Mr. Justice Murphy, bnt that was dropped and the present appeal is based on the grounds that one of the jurors was disqualified because of a conviction having been registered against him some years earlier.

As soon as the Stewart adjournment was announced, the Court of Appeal took up other work and most of the spectators left the courtroom.

A writer says the only way to cure an egotist is to imitate his own style of conversation. An "I" for an "I," so to speak.

INTENSIVE SEARCH FOR ESCAPED TRIO IS WITHOUT AVAIL

The search for Bagley, Sorge and Fawcett continued through the day with unabated zeal, but without definite results. Police followed numerous "clues" phoned in by excited citizens and were determined to leave nothing to chance.

A squad of fifteen police officers from both city and provincial forces, shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon, visited the Eburne and Marpole Hotels, Marpole, where rumor had stated that Bagley and his companions were in hiding.

The officers, under Deputy Chief John Murdock, made a complete search of both hotels, but found nothing to justify the rumor.

The police squad proceeded to Marpole in cars, armed with tear bombs and shotguns.

SIMULTANEOUS SEARCHES

Streets leading to the buildings were guarded by armed officers, while squads entered the two hotels, half a block apart, simultaneously. All available plain clothes and uniform officers were pressed into duty at police headquarters as soon as the fruitless tip was received.

No effort would be spared to sift to the bottom of the circumstances surrounding Sunday night's jail break, declared Attorney-General R. H. Pooley tonight, in announcing that Colonel J. H. McMullin would take personal charge of the Oakalla inquiry. Colonel McMullin, he said, would join Assistant Commissioner W. R. Dunwoody, who had been on the scene since Sunday. Suspension of the two guards, Campbell and Cunningham, will remain until after the conclusion of the investigation.

VARIED THEORIES ADVANCED

Bagley frequented the Victoria and Vancouver waterfronts in former days and sold fish for a living, and has many friends who, it is believed, might help him to escape. His familiarity with the mountainous country between Harrison Hot Springs and the border, which helped him somewhat in his attempt to escape following the Harrison Hotel robbery, is an indication, police think, that he may have taken to the wilds, providing, of course, that he managed to get away from the city by land.

Reviewing Bagley's past, Tuesday, police and prison authorities expressed official regrets that the man was paroled after serving four years of an eight-year sentence for the Nanaimo bank robbery. The parole was given by Federal authority. It was during this term that he received the twenty lashes that he has not yet forgotten. He was to have received fifteen lashes, in addition to the fourteen-year sentence, for the Harrison Hot Springs robbery.

Charges of escaping from lawful custody will be laid against Norman A. Moore and William Lane, alias Kearney, the two prisoners recaptured Monday afternoon, police state. The two have said little since their recapture beyond stating that they were not implicated in the actual escape, merely following the others after a short walk.

WILL INSTALL NEW OFFICERS

Kiwanis Club Will Meet Next Wednesday Night for Purpose of Annual Induction

W. Ellis Brown, the new head of the Kiwanis Club, presided at the luncheon meeting of that organization yesterday in the Empress Hotel. In assuming the office, the new president recommended upon the part of the members the exercise of energy throughout the year. This would be the best means possible of gaining the best from the work.

The formal installation of the officers of the club will be held on the evening of Wednesday, January 13. In view of this there will be no luncheon meeting next Tuesday. It is expected that about 150 visitors will be present at the installation.

William Luney will represent the club at a gathering at Chehalis, Wash., when business affecting the organization will be considered.

RELATES YARNS OF ADVENTURE

Sir Charles Deime-Radcliffe Addresses British Campaigners' Association

Many thrilling yarns of stalking big game more for educational purposes than for the "kill" were related by Brig.-Gen. Sir Charles Deime-Radcliffe before a large dinner gathering of the British Campaigners' Association at the Dominion Hotel last night.

Probably the most thrilling story of them all was that in which Sir Charles told of how he and his party crossed the serrated plains of East Africa and were charged during the night by a rhinoceros, which disbanded the natives and left the leaders of the band with very little water and a good portion of the desert still to be crossed. How the party struggled across the desert and gained hope for water from hearing the bell-like tinkle of a peculiar frog, and later found relief in the sight of Will-o'-the-Wisp lice, which dance across a swamp flashing their "lights" and indicating to the travel-worn party the presence of water, was told.

BY STREAM AND FIELD

Adventures by stream and field were related without number. In one year alone, the speaker said, he lost forty-five natives to hippopotami and crocodiles. He also spoke of the almost uncanny intelligence shown by Indian elephants.

Major J. Gordon Smith, head of the Provincial Government Publicity Bureau, assisted by H. A. Hourston, of the Department of Agriculture, showed five reels of scenic views of the Canadian Rockies, the West Coast of Vancouver Island, Stuart Lake, Alaska and the timbered areas of British Columbia.

Robert Morrison was the soloist of the evening. He sang "The Trumpeter."

S—10, 5
H—10, 7, 4, 2
D—Q, 10, 9, 8
C—Q, 7, 4

Mr. Gottlieb, as dealer, opened with one heart and Mr. Culbertson responded with one spade. Mr. Gottlieb bid one no trump and Mr. Culbertson now showed his strong hand by bidding three spades, and Mr. Gottlieb ended the contracting with a three no trump declaration.

The opening lead was the five of diamonds, which Mr. Gottlieb won with the ace. After winning five spade tricks, Commander Liggett was thrown in with a diamond.

Had he now taken his two diamonds and led a heart the contract would have been defeated. However, he could not place Mr. Lenz with the two top cards in that suit so he led a club, which permitted Mr. Gottlieb to finesse for the game trick.

FORCING THREE-BID

The forcing three-bid of the official system made its appearance on this hand, for the first time in over two weeks:

North
Mr. Lenz
S—J, 8, 2
H—J, 10, 9
D—A, Q, 10, 8, 7, 3

South
Mr. Liggett
S—A, K, Q, 10, 6, 5
H—A, K
D—K, 5
C—K, 4, 3

Commander Liggett made a fourth hand bid of three spades which Mr. Lenz raised to four, though experts were generally agreed that he should have shown his diamond suit. Commander Liggett passed and the four of diamonds was opened.

A small slam was made when Mr. Gottlieb failed to cash his ace of clubs. Against a slam declaration, of course, it would have won. The adverse diamond distribution made it necessary to lose a trick in that suit.

REACH SMALL SLAM

The Lenz-Liggett combination felt quite happy to know that they stopped at the right time. The Culbertson-Gottlieb combination functioned prettily as they reached a small slam, by easy stages, on this deal:

North
Mr. Lenz
S—8, 7
H—9, 8, 3
D—Q, 10, 8, 7, 4, 2
C—K, 5

West

C—A, 4

South
Mr. Liggett
S—K, Q, 9, 5, 4
H—J, 10, 5
D—J, 3
C—10, 8, 2

Mr. Gottlieb, the dealer, opened with one heart, Commander Liggett overcalled with one spade, and Mr. Culbertson made a forcing take-out bid of three clubs. When Mr. Gottlieb responded with three hearts, Mr. Culbertson bid three spades to show control of that suit.

Mr. Gottlieb then turned his diamonds with a bid of four. Mr. Culbertson bid four hearts and Mr. Gottlieb called five clubs, which his partner raised to six clubs.

The eight of spades was opened. Since the club finesse was successful, a grand slam was made.

CAUGHT WOLF ON WASHINGTON STREET

WASHINGTON, D.C., Jan. 5 (AP).—Meeting a wolf on Sixteenth Street, which Washington calls the "Avenue of Presidents," was the peculiar experience this morning of Gordon Rains.

To prove it was a wolf, he captured it with the aid of several cab drivers and milkmen, about 1 o'clock. After going to all the trouble, Rains hopes no one explains how the wolf got there. He wants to keep it.

MOVE SOUTH AND EXTEND DOMINATION

Both soldiers insisted only the interpreter accompanying them struck Chamberlain, the spokesman declared.

ADVANCE 44 MILES

PEIPING, Jan. 5 (AP).—A Japanese unit of 1,000 men has advanced forty-four miles down the Peiping-Mukden railroad from Chinchow and clashed with the Chinese at Ningyuanchow, the Kuomin (Chinese) News Agency reported today.

Ningyuanchow is about half-way between Chinchow and Shanhaikwan, in China proper. The belief was expressed the Japanese column intended to go as far as Shanhaikwan, where there already is a Japanese garrison.

Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang has called a meeting of the principal military commanders of North China, apparently for the purpose of forming a Northern military bloc virtually independent of the Nanking Government, Peiping newspapers said.

The meeting, the papers declared, is to be held at Peiping next week.

Marshal Chang issued a statement from his headquarters blaming the new Nanking Government for the fall of Chinchow. He repeatedly asked for money, munitions and reinforcements to defend the city, he said, but the Government did nothing.

WARNED TO RETIRE

TIENTSIN, Jan. 5 (AP).—Chang Hsueh-Liang, deposed Governor of Manchuria, whose troops have been driven out of that province by the Japanese, has received an official ultimatum warning him to retire into North China, it was reliably reported here today.

The Japanese intend to strengthen considerably their forces at Shanhaikwan, according to these reports. Chinese papers declared Japan plans to occupy the Chinese city of Tientsin and to expel 20,000 Chinese troops from Lanchow, well within the Great Wall, where they have been since the evacuation of Chinchow.

REPEAT CONCERT AT ORPHANAGE

More Than 300 Present When Children of Home Delight With Splendid Entertainment

A well-arranged programme, embodying the spirit of Christmas, delighted more than three hundred guests who attended the repeat performance of the annual concert at the Protestant Orphans' Home last evening. The whole entertainment was admirably conducted, and the ability and thoroughness with which each child carried out his part was a great credit to those in charge and to the performers.

Reginald Hayward, M.P.P., acted as master of ceremonies and, during the course of the evening, gave a brief address on the aims and intentions of the directors concerning the future of the institution.

At the conclusion of the concert a vote of thanks was tendered both to the inmates of the home and to Mrs. Barner and Mrs. Harkness for their ceaseless efforts in making the entertainment a success. Miss Caulfield was accompanist for the evening.

THE PROGRAMME

The programme was as follows: Carol, "O Come, All Ye Faithful," the children; opening address, Florence Woodruff; song, "Merry, Merry Christmas," little boys; recitation, "The Old Doll," Eileen Gill; exercise, "The Messengers"; "Song of the Christmas Stockings," the babies; solo, "When Santa and I Were Young," Ruth Hogen; dialogue, "Uncle Hiram's Cold"; duet, "The Stranger Star," Lawrence Nicholas and Stanley Sharcott; recitation, "If," Calanthe Battle; song, "The Christmas Candles"; exercise, "The Gates of His Garden"; song, "The Christmas Cradle"; recitation, "The Christmas Sunbeam," Olive Cockerton; "Wreath Drill," big girls; dialogue, "Getting Ready for School"; duet, "God Took Care of the Baby," Leslie Robinson and Ellen Hogen; dialogue, "When Uncle Came to Visit"; exercise, "Wake Up, Little Daisies"; Scripture recitations; drill, "The Winter Sunbeams"; recitation, "The Twenty-Six," Lawrence Nicholas; instrumental, Nicholas Renard; solo, Cecil Barner; pantomime, "In the Cross of Christ I Glory," and carol, "Once in Royal David's City," the children.

Seattle Shaken By Earth Tremor

SEATTLE, Jan. 5 (AP).—Pictures and light fixtures swayed and dishes rattled here today as Western Washington experienced its second earthquake in less than a week. The tremor lasted half a minute.

The earthquake also was reported in Everett and adjoining communities.

The disturbance was noticed most in Seattle in the downtown district, causing some excitement among shoppers. A similar tremor was recorded on December 31.

He Could Hardly Bend His Back Was So Bad
Saskatchewan Man Used Dodd's Kidney Pills
Mr. J. Rothlander Got Relief After Taking Two Boxes
MOZART, Sask., Jan. 5 (Special).—"I had been suffering for a long time with backache and could scarcely bend," writes Mr. J. Rothlander, a well-known resident of this place. "I used many kinds of medicines, but they did not relieve me. I decided to give Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial and got relief after taking two boxes. Now I am quite well and am able to do my work. I always keep a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills on hand."
You have no idea what a difference Dodd's Kidney Pills will make to you. They can do no harm to anybody. When you consider the number of years that they have been a household remedy and the thousands of women, men, also children, who have derived benefit from using them, you must be sure they are a good medicine. EARLY LIFE IN PROVINCE TOLD

C. H. French Gives Exceptionally Fine Illustrated Address to Round Table Members

An exceptionally well illustrated picture on early life in British Columbia, in the days of gold rushes and seal hunting on the Pacific Coast was presented to members of the Round Table Club by C. H. French, former chief factor and retired fur commissioner of the Hudson's Bay Company, at their dinner meeting in the Empress Hotel last night.

Mr. French's scenes included pictures of Victoria in the days when Douglas Street was little more than a grass pathway with sidewalks on each side, and views of Indian and Eskimo life on both the coasts of Vancouver Island and British Columbia.

Excellent views of the natives on a seal hunt were shown, and the manner in which the seals were captured and their skins transported for trade was illustrated.

THE EARLY BOATS

The early boats, including the famous Beaver, were shown with others which illustrated the later and more modern type that were used.

Beautiful scenes on the ice floes at Nome, Alaska, and Wrangel Island drew much comment from the club members, as did the views of excavated caves and caverns in the Interior.

Mr. French explained how the run of the fur seal herd starts off the California coast, traveling northward during the Winter, and on reaching the northern waters commences breeding.

Previous to Mr. French's address, Alderman W. T. Straith, president, told the club members that the executive had planned an extensive programme of dinner addresses until the holiday season, including topics of all descriptions, which would prove of considerable interest to the members.

THOROUGH ROUND-UP OF NATIONALIST LEADERS IS BEGUN BY GOVERNMENT

Arrest immediately followed these activities, but other women took the places of the arrested ones.

There were reported to be 10,000 of these militant women in Bombay alone. They are divided into two groups, one known as the Sevadal for the middle classes, and the other the Desh Sevikas for the rich and aristocratic. Legions of these demonstrators joined white-capped Nationalist youths parading through the shopping districts and chanting "Boycott British goods."

NO MOCK FUNERALS

Another provision was added to the Government's emergency decrees—ban on mock funerals. At New Delhi, where this new prohibition was made public, it was explained its purpose was to prevent agitators from frightening men into joining the Nationalist movement by "dummy burials."

NEW DELHI, Jan. 5 (AP).—Viceroy Lord Willingdon today cancelled his trip to Alwar, slated for Thursday, because of the necessity for keeping in touch with the political situation here. He said he hoped another week's stay in headquarters will enable him to outline his future programme.

SHOWING THE FLAG

POONA, Jan. 5 (AP).—A battalion of the King's Own Scottish Borderers, well-known British regiment, will leave here tonight for Sholapur, from where it will make a long march, carrying the Union Jack through thickly populated territory and returning January 23.

Sholapur was under martial law last year, following a civil disobedience riot among mill hands, and the whole district showed a disposition to support the Nationalist Congress.

ENDEAVOR TO INDUCE HAWAIIAN ISLANDERS TO VISIT THIS CITY

The Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau is conducting a vigorous campaign with the Hawaiian Islands for establishing a greater tourist travel from there to Victoria. Already there are a considerable number who pay the Island a visit in the Summer season. It is hoped to materially increase this trade.

The bureau is co-operating with H. W. Brodie, of Montreal, overseas manager of the C.P.R. In this matter. The C.P.R. has a direct steamship service with the Islands which has permitted a number of local citizens to pay a visit to Honolulu and spend a part of the Winter there.

The sending of literature and the conduct of a direct mail service with prospective Summer visitors from the Islands it is hoped may attract still more tourists to this city.

Tax Collections $20,371.95 Over Figures of 1931

Prepayments of 1932 taxes for the five days of January reached a total of more than $20,000 above the amount collected in the same period of last year, according to figures given out by City Treasurer Edwin C. Smith at the close of business last night. Total collections up to last night were $69,890.61, as compared with $49,518.66 at the close of the first five days of January, 1931, an increase over last year of $20,371.95 for this year's collections.

Club Among First To Pay 1932 Taxes

Among the first to pay taxes at the City Hall on the 1932 account was the Britannia Branch of the Canadian Legion, represented by the secretary and the chairman of the finance committee, who presented themselves at the treasury office Monday morning with a cheque for $1,060, the amount of the year's taxes. Norman Saunders, secretary of the organization, stated that this was sufficient evidence of the fact that the branch was in good financial condition.

Boys Go Without Dinner to Help Bereaved Family

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Jan. 5 (CP).—The fifty-five boys in the industrial home at East Saint John were skating at noon today instead of eating. Furthermore, there was no prospect they would dine until the regular supper hour. It was a matter of voluntary fasting, however. The boys were playing Good Samaritan.

A young lad who frequently visited the home was killed last week. His family are in striatened circumstances and in order to provide them with provisions for a few weeks the boys and staff at the home volunteered to sacrifice today's dinner for the cause.

EMANCIPATION OF IRAK ASKED

Reception Into League of Nations Recommended in Special Report of Commission

GENEVA, Jan. 5 (AP).—The emancipation of Irak from the status of a British mandate, and its reception into the League of Nations as a sovereign state, was recommended in a special report published by the permanent mandates commission of the League today.

The recommendation was based upon a proposal of the British Government that "should Irak prove itself unworthy of the confidence placed in it the moral responsibilities must rest with His Majesty's Governments."

The commission acknowledged that Irak is without a sufficient military establishment to maintain its territorial integrity and political independence against foreign aggression, but it asserted that membership in the League should provide sufficient security.

The League Council will act upon the report at its next meeting, January 25.

UNITED STATES OFFERS TO BRING GERMAN ICE TEAM

BERLIN, Jan. 5 (AP).—A friendly gesture on the part of United States ice hockey clubs may mean that Germany, after all, will be able to send a team to compete in that sport at the Winter Olympiad in Lake Placid, N.Y., next month.

United States clubs have offered to pay all expenses of the trip. The Berlin Skating Club is ready to accept the proposition, provided German sports authorities approve.

Only two days ago German Olympic authorities ruled no ice hockey team should be sent to Lake Placid, partly because of financial reasons and partly because they felt there was little chance of German success in that event.

GREAT U.S. MILER IN DANCE MARATHON

Joie Ray Shuffling Along to Blatant Proddings of Jazz Orchestra —Is in Good Condition

NEWARK, N.J., Jan. 5.—The sinewy legs that carried Joie Ray through three Olympic Games as greatest miler of the United States are only the props of a long-distance hoofer now as he shuffles through the weary miles of a dance marathon here.

The ears that once tingled with the praise of amateur sports lovers hear now only the blatant proddings of a jazz orchestra and the music of a gallery of marathon dance fans.

Joie Ray, now thirty-six years old, one-time national hero of the cinder track, is merely No. 43—or rather half of team No. 43—fox trotting for pay, in an exhibition of sleepless endurance.

"You can't keep the wolf from your door with medals," Joie said today. "The butcher and baker won't take my trophies.

"I've tried almost everything in the athletic line—roller skating, racing against a horse, prize fighting, snowshoe racing, and even selling sporting goods. And I've driven a taxi. But I need to eat now, and that's why I'm doing this."

He appears in splendid condition, although he said doctors had told him his heart was not as good as it should be. He has gained weight, his leg muscles are firm, and he says he could go out and break 4:26 for the mile today.

At the end of the month, he said, he expects to go to Canada to compete in a snowshoe race at Quebec. The distance to be covered is 200 miles.

"I finished seventh last time, and I figure my chances of winning this year are good," Joie said.

Fifteen Aviators Escape in Crash

WASHINGTON, D.C., Jan. 5 (AP).—Fifty or more amateur flyers landed safely here yesterday and then fifteen of them crashed.

After attending a banquet given them by the Government's ranking aviation officials, they entered an elevator, which proceeded to dive six stories. It made a perfect fourteen-point landing on the basement shock absorbers.

Nobody was hurt. The aviators cheered. In the elevator were Clarence Chamberlin, Ruth Nichols, Rear Admiral Moffett, Major-Gen. James E. Fechet (retired) and other noted figures of the air.

Deny Reports of Briand's Illness

PARIS, Jan. 5 (AP).—The Foreign Office said tonight that Aristide Briand is following a course of treatment which obliges him to keep to his apartment for several days.

The Ministry denied reports that the Foreign Minister had suffered a stroke of paralysis, and pointed out that he was personally directing the affairs of his office.

This denial came after reports had been circulated in diplomatic circles to the effect that M. Briand was suffering from weakness of the heart

TREE PRUNING DEMONSTRATED

E. W. White, District Horticulturalist, Addresses Victoria Society

Demonstrations of pruning and grafting, supplemented by remarks, were shown to members of the Victoria Horticultural Society by E. W. White, district horticulturist for the Provincial Government, at their monthly meeting held in the City Hall last night.

Mr. White dealt chiefly with the pruning of old trees, with a view to letting in plenty of light and air. He stressed the necessity of pruning back as close to the wood as possible, stating that proper pruning would repay greatly. In pruning fruit he advised to avoid too much wood growth. Advantages and disadvantages from different types of pruning were aptly demonstrated with a number of specimens. The speaker dealt principally with the pruning of apple, pear, plum, prune and cherry trees.

SYSTEMATIC PRUNING

Mr. White said that more satisfactory results might be obtained by systematic pruning and strongly advised more pruning with a view to increasing new wood, insuring fruit sprigs to bear fruit the following year.

Referring to grafting, Mr. White stated that it is necessary to carry out grafting in the Spring of the year. Under some conditions, he said, it can be spread over a period of six months. Two kinds of wood were necessary for grafting, he said, stock and scion, preferably dormant scions. The following formula for grafting wax was recommended by the speaker, five pounds of resin, one pound of beeswax, one-quarter pint of raw linseed oil, with the addition of a little lamp-black.

Following the speaker's address, Dr. A. G. Price, the president, expressed New Year's greetings to the members.

COMPETITION WINNERS

The winners of the monthly competition for Savoy cabbage were: 1, F. Turner, and 2, Mrs. E. W. Darcus. More than forty varieties of flowers in bloom at the present time were named at the meeting.

A hearty vote of thanks to the speaker was moved by P. R. Leighton, seconded by E. M. Whyte.

U.B.C. HOOPMEN SHOW OLD FORM

Dominion Champions Defeat Moose Jaw Squad in Easy Fashion 55 to 27

MOOSE JAY, Jan. 5.—Flashing a brilliant attack, coupled with deadly shooting, B.C. Varsity cagers piled up 55 points against 27 by the Moose Jaw K.O.R.C., to win the charity basketball game at the Armories tonight.

The Moose Jaw team was outclassed in just about the same ratio as the score and, while they made many mistakes, they showed flashes of high-class basketball.

The Varsity crew gave a good display of why they are Dominion champions in the sport. Their teamwork was clean-cut, passing accurate, shooting deadly, and the players worked all the time in perfect harmony and with a perfect understanding of the other fellow's play. It was teamwork and smart ball handling which won the game for the British Columbia aggregation.

"Dear friends," began the speaker, "I call you 'dear friends'; I won't call you ladies and gentlemen because, you see, I know you all so well."

Data on Winds and Air Currents Obtained Prior to Flight

Skilled radio operators and mechanics are now at Cranwell Aerodrome, Lincolnshire, busy with a special station for the reception of messages, broadcast several times daily from meteorological headquarters in Western Europe and North Africa, indicating the weather prevailing over the route to be followed by Squadron Leader Gayford and Flight Lieutenant Bett, and their "robot" automatic assistant, in the attempt to fly 6,000 miles nonstop from Lincolnshire to Capetown.

The data thus obtained, supplemented by daily information from the Air Ministry's weather office at Malta, and from Nigeria and South Africa, will be plotted on charts and used in the compilation of a detailed forecast of wind and weather all along the route.

MOVES IN CURRENTS

An important section of this material will detail velocity and direction of the wind at different heights. Air moves in currents, and the movement may be in contrary senses at levels sufficiently far apart. For example, when nearing South Africa the huge Fairey monoplane would be likely to meet head winds low down, but several thousand feet up a light favorable breeze should be found to assist the craft on its way. Considerations of this kind naturally play a great part in determining the ultimate range of the big machine.

Given the northerly wind hoped for at this end of the flight, fairly good conditions are likely most of the way to Capetown. Selection of the best flying height may give a following wind over a great part of the route. Over the Sahara Desert a useful northeast wind blows steadily a few thousand feet up at this time of year and may even extend its helping influence to the coast of Nigeria. Once south of the Congo, the risk of bad weather is negligible.

The special weather station at Cranwell was busy during the monoplane's recent nonstop flight to Egypt, whence it was returning when forced in bad weather to make an emergency landing near Saffron Walden. The machine sustained slight damage. The Cape flight will not be made, therefore, till late this month or February. Then, when the full moon is there to light the way across the desert during the first night of the great adventure, the giant plane, loaded with nearly four tons of fuel for the feeding of its specially tuned Napier 530-horsepower motor, will ascend from Cranwell and head south for Capetown and midsummer.

TRANSCANADA WIRE PLANNED

Telephone Conversation Between Victoria and Halifax Soon to Be Available

Opening of the transcanada telephone line, linking the Atlantic and Pacific coasts of the Dominion by all-Canadian telephone circuits for the first time in history, has been set for Monday, January 25.

His Excellency Earl Bessborough, the Governor-General, will officiate at the opening cermony. He will speak from the Dominion capital, while the Lieutenant-Governors of the various provinces will also participate. The ceremony will take place at 9 a.m., Victoria time; 12 noon at Ottawa, and 1 p.m. at Halifax.

Construction of the B.C. Telephone Company's portion of the line was completed in November, and calls from Victoria and other points in the B.C. Telephone Company's system to Toronto and Montreal are already being routed over the new voice highway. Finishing touches to the job on the Atlantic Coast are now being added, so that the service between Victoria and Halifax will be available this month. Field engineering on the B.C. portion was started in September, 1930. Construction work was begun in November, 1930, and was finished a year later.

BIG UNDERTAKING

The job was the biggest single construction undertaking in the B.C. Telephone Company's history, and, in view of the vast expanse of rugged country over which the line had to be built, the British Columbia portion is regarded as one of the most difficult telephone construction jobs ever undertaken on this continent. Mountain-climbing telephone poles comprise a major portion of the line across this Province. Three-quarters of the B.C. line is through mountainous country, and in most cases, instead of following the winding roads, the line takes the shortest possible route and goes right over the mountains.

Canada's first transcontinental voice highway, from Victoria to Halifax, is the joint accomplishment of seven of the Dominion's principal telephone systems, working in close co-operation. The pole-line distance across Canada is over 4,200 miles. Each system involved has been responsible for the building of the line through its own territory.

FASTER SERVICE

In the past all telephone traffic between Western and Eastern Canada has had to be routed by way of the United States. The new line gives a faster and higher grade of service across this country, using only Canadian circuits.

The B.C. Telephone Company's share of the project has been to span British Columbia with two new telephone circuits (four wires) on 26,250 new poles, from the Coast to Crow's Nest Station, on the Alberta boundary, over a route of approximately 625 miles. The cost to the company is in excess of $1,000,000.

EDITOR CALLED TO LONG REST

Irving E. Robertson, of Toronto Evening Telegram, Passes Away

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP).—Irving E. Robertson, editor-in-chief of The Toronto Evening Telegram, died last night. Mr. Robertson had been ill at his home for several weeks.

Son of the late John Ross Robertson, founder of The Toronto Telegram, Irving E. Robertson was editor-in-chief of the newspaper since 1928. He became one of the management trustees of The Telegram on his father's death in 1918 and succeeded the late John R. Robinson as editor-in-chief when he died three years ago.

His strong personality, his unquestioned ability and his devotion to his craft made him a leading figure in Canadian newspaper life, and he included among his personal friends Canadian newspaper publishers from coast to coast.

Born in Toronto, May 10, 1882, Mr. Robertson was the second son of his father's first wife, Maria Louisa Gilbee. He was the last survivor of three children, of whom Helen Goldwin died in childhood and John Sinclair ("Cully") died in 1918.

As a scholar he displayed marked ability. After attending model school and Upper Canada College, he studied at the University of Toronto for two years. From Brasenose College, Oxford, he graduated in arts, with honors in classics and history.

At the outbreak of the war, Mr. Robertson was commissioned lieutenant in the 170th Battalion, but illness in training, an operation and prolonged convalescence prevented him from proceeding overseas.

WANT SCOPE OF INQUIRY ALTERED

Drugless Healing Commission Terms Laid Again Before Provincial Cabinet

Deadlocked in presentations before the commissioner, all parties to the provincial inquiry on drugless healing appealed to the Cabinet yesterday, through counsel, on arguments addressed to the scope of the commission. Harold B. Robertson, K.C., appeared for the medical profession; Mark Cosgrove acted for drugless healers other than chiropractors; and H. D. Twigg, M.P.P., for the chiropractors.

Mr. Robertson advanced again the contention of the medical profession that the scope of the inquiry should be enlarged. Seised with the facts for the third time since the issue started, the Cabinet promised careful consideration of the representations.

The inquiry, meanwhile, is adjourned, due to the indisposition of the commissioner, Mr. Justice Murphy.

Marauder Startles Family

WHEN members of the Mallory family, Toronto, came down to breakfast the other day, they found one very much annoyed black horned owl perched in the dining-room, with pictures and other ornaments strewn about the floor. The bird (shown above) angrily fended off all advances, and the photographer, even, was unable to photograph it until representatives of the Humane Society arrived. It had entered the room by the chimney.

VIEWPOINT IN WORLD ALTERED

B. C. Nicholas Addresses Kiwanis Club on Outlook for 1932

Speaking before the Kiwanis Club yesterday, B. C. Nicholas alluded to the outlook of Canada for the future. His subject was the year 1932, and dealing with the possibilities of the Dominion, the speaker referred to the many advantages possessed by Canada which made for great things with the advent of more prosperous times. Populated by an intelligent, law-abiding people, with room for ten times the population she now possessed; controlling great natural resources, lying half way between the new and the old worlds, alongside one of the richest nations; a partner in the great empire, the British Commonwealth, were all features that peculiarly fitted Canada for material recovery.

In the opinion of Mr. Nicholas, this country must look to immigration for the future. More people were required to develop this country. There were millions, he said, that were ready to establish for themselves new homes. The opportunities for them were here.

DESIRE FOR HOMES

No country, said the speaker, had been built up on a desire alone on the part of its home seekers to make material profit. Rather was a country built up upon the desire to build new homes. He felt that if there was a move to concentrate upon the establishing of people upon the land, irrespective of whether markets existed, but with the object of providing good homes for the settlers, there was a real opening in this country. Every depression in the past had been followed, he said, by a shifting of population into new territory.

Mr. Nicholas predicted the defeat of the Hoover administration in the United States at the election on its foreign policy. The Democrats might be expected to win, with Franklin D. Roosevelt, Al Smith and Newton Baker as prospective candidates, with the latter possibly securing nomination as a compromise between the other two. No matter how they tried to confine the policies of the elections to United States issues, the big issue of the election would be a world one.

END OF WAR DEBTS

Dealing with the situation in various other countries of the world, the speaker alluded to the possibilities of the elections in France and in Germany. He felt that with the coming of the reparations conference this month there was good reason to believe that the last would be heard of reparations and war debts. This would follow in spite of the attitude of the Congress of the United States on the subject.

There was a different outlook upon life now seizing the people, said Mr. Nicholas. People were realizing that success did not depend upon the amount of pounds or dollars accumulated. Machinery had dehumanized humanity. There was now a different outlook upon life in which the moral or even the spiritual side had more play. A finer balance was being established between, for instance, urban and rural life.

Canadian Primate Makes His Comment on Pope's Christmas Encyclical

HALIFAX, Jan. 5 (CP).—Archbishop C. L. Worrell, Primate of the Church of England in Canada, in a statement yesterday, commented on the Christmas Day encyclical of Pope Pius XI.

"That a united Christian church is devoutedly desired by all true believers in Christ as the thing most needed to help the world out of the mess into which it has fallen—alike in Roman as in Protestant communities—is quite true," the Archbishop said.

"But that can never be accomplished by the absorption of free bodies by a dictatorship which insists on imposing long-resisted and fully discredited tenets as the condition for union.

"Leaving to others who have time at their disposal to fully comment upon Pope Pius' recent encyclical, I have just a word to say, and that is unofficially, and for it I am alone responsible," said the Primate in issuing his statement.

"I most heartily congratulate His Holiness on much of the contents of his encyclical, and, while I thank him for his appeal for the high principles of moral life, I regret I cannot agree with him as to the methods he proposes for their safeguarding."

COMMITTEE WILL DISCUSS RELIEF

New Public Works Board to Consider Unemployment at First Meeting Thursday

Questions to come before the first meeting of the newly created public works committee, which is virtually the City Council's board of control, had not been decided at a late hour yesterday afternoon, it was stated by Mayor David Leeming, chairman of the committee, which is to meet on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Mayor Leeming, however, intimated that unemployment relief would probably take precedence over all other matters. Unemployment relief, the Mayor stated, was one of the big problems facing the 1932 City Council, and there was a desire on the part of the members to make an early effort to find a solution. In the meantime, large amounts of money are being paid out of the city treasury almost daily for relief payrolls and other items directly or indirectly connected with unemployment. Bills for materials are bound to be high in view of the heavy programme of water main and sewer extensions approved by the previous council.

The change of the date of the meeting was made at the request of His Worship, who is going to Seattle, Thursday afternoon to attend the annual meeting of the Puget Sounders and British Columbians Associated to be held on Friday. Mayor Leeming is first vice-president of the organization.

HIGH COURT BEGINS WORK

Twenty-Five Appeals to Be Heard—Eighteen Judgments Handed Down

Victoria sittings of the British Columbia Court of Appeal opened at the Courthouse yesterday morning at 11 o'clock with a list of twenty-five appeals to be heard during the sessions.

At the opening of the Tuesday sitting Chief Justice J. A. Macdonald handed down eighteen judgments of cases heard at the previous sitting of the Appeal Court, leaving five to have decisions given.

CRIMINAL APPEALS

The Court is proceeding with civil appeals until Thursday, when the criminal appeals will be commenced. At the request of A. M. Johnson, K.C., special Crown prosecutor, prisoners will be brought over from the Mainland in two groups, one on Thursday and one on Friday.

Chief Justice Macdonald mildly criticised the apparent disregard of counsel in not having their cases ready for hearing and intimated that the Court could not be lightly brushed aside because counsel were engaged elsewhere. Absence of lawyers and unpreparedness were responsible for considerable changes in the original list of appeals.

JUDGMENTS GIVEN

The complete list of judgments handed down by the Court yesterday follow:

Rex vs. Walford, dismissed (McPhillips, J.A., dissenting).

Rex vs. Irving, dismissed.

Jarvis vs. Southard Motors, Ltd., dismissed.

Rex vs. Mayoda, dismissed.

Baldwin vs. Bell, allowed (Martin and McPhillips, JJ.A., dissenting).

Stobie, Forlong Assets, Ltd., vs. Barker, dismissed.

Pianta vs. Greenshields, dismissed.

Russell vs. Rawlings, dismissed.

Lower Mainland Dairy Products Sales Adjustment Committee vs. Crystal Dairy, Ltd., dismissed (Macdonald, J.A., would allow in part).

Rex vs. Burgess, dismissed (Macdonald, C.J.B.C., and McPhillips, J.A., dissenting).

White vs. Piggly Wiggly, dismissed (McPhillips, J.A., dissenting).

Bamford vs. Buckerfields, Ltd., allowed (Macdonald, C.J.B.C., dissenting).

Dunning vs. Nicholls, dismissed (McPhillips, J.A., dissenting).

Dewies vs. Morrow, allowed.

Macdonald vs. Wolleston, dismissed.

Eberts vs. Taylor, dismissed.

REASONS ARE STATED

Baldwin vs. Bell—In this case respondent had obtained a judgment for damages occasioned in a motor accident. The Court of Appeal found that evidence of appellant's negligence was wanting, and allowed the appeal.

Jarvis (R) vs. Southard Motors, Ltd. (A) — Respondent recovered damages for injuries received while riding in a car belonging to appellant and driven by one of its salesmen. The driver was engaged to sell appellant's cars on commission. He was permitted to drive the car, in which respondent was injured, at any time whether on appellant's business or his own. Respondent's presence in the car did not interfere with the prosecution of the driver's business as a salesman. It was alleged and proved that appellant was the owner of the car and the presumption arises, unless rebutted, that the driver was the servant of appellant. The driver was not restricted in the use of the car. The decisive feature was that the general and unrestricted commission at large was given for the employer's benefit. It was never known at what time or under what circumstances a sale might be effected. He had a roving commission. A sale might be made on a pleasure jaunt. He was definitely on his master's business when he invited respondent to ride with him. The decision that the damages were caused by the driver's negligence while on appellant's business would not be interfered with. The appeal was dismissed.

Stobie, Forlong Assets, Ltd. (R) vs. Barker (A)—Appellant refused payment of a claim by respondent, the trustee in bankruptcy, arising out of the purchase of stocks and shares by the company at the request of appellant, on the ground that he was entitled to delivery of the identical shares purchased before an action for the purchase price could be maintained. The Court held that it was unnecessary for the identical shares purchased for appellant to be earmarked and kept available although shares must be available for delivery when demanded on payment. Respondent had in its possession and was at all times ready to deliver and during the trial did deliver enough shares of the particular stocks purchased, to satisfy the only demand appellant could make upon making payment. Appellant was first obliged to pay for the shares before he could demand delivery. Tender of the amount should have been made. The appeal was dismissed.

Reasons for judgment in other appeals in the foregoing list of judgments are expected to be given before the end of the present sittings.

APPEAL CONTINUING

Re R. P. Clarke & Co. (Vancouver), Ltd., Authorized Assignor—Shimmin (A) vs. Clarke (R)—This was the first appeal heard by the Court at the commencement of the January sittings yesterday.

Respondent owed the company a sum of money. A settlement was made whereby respondent was released from the indebtedness in consideration of the transfer by her of certain shares in another company. The authorized trustee sought to set aside the transaction and recover the amount from respondent, on the grounds that the formalities necessary to give effect to the settlement had not been complied with, and that one of the directors was not qualified to act as a director when dealing with the matter.

Counsel for respondent moved to quash the appeal on the grounds that under the Bankruptcy Rules security for costs should have been deposited at or before the filing of the Notice of Appeal. He argued that the Bankruptcy Rules comprise a complete code laying down the procedure to be followed. Where the Bankruptcy Rules differ from the Rules of Court the former should prevail. The application to quash was dismissed.

The appeal is proceeding.

L. G. McPhillips, K.C., and G. B. Duncan for appellant; H. B. Robertson, K.C., for respondent.

THE KEY OF PROSPERITY

Any impression prevailing that the United States has forgiven France a large proportion of the latter's war debts to America is a greatly mistaken one. The situation is made clear by The New York Times. That newspaper shows that the United States advanced to France before the Armistice a sum of $1,970,000,000; after the Armistice, $1,027,477,800, and advanced for the purchase of war material a sum of $407,341,000. These amounts make a total of $3,404,818,800. France has agreed to pay, in principal and interest, a sum of $6,847,674,104. In other words, as The New York Times says, "for every dollar of principal loaned to France, both before and after the Armistice, we hold promises of two to be paid us in return. Such 'cancellation' as took place occurred entirely in our willingness to grant an extremely low rate of interest to a nation at whose side we fought in the World War."

The arrangement with France, in its ultimate implication, means the latter country will pay two dollars for every one dollar borrowed from the United States. Britain has not obtained as favorable treatment as France and Italy although she also was a nation "at whose side" the United States fought in the Great War. Britain is paying a higher rate of interest than France on her debts to the United States. She is paying nearer three dollars than two for every dollar borrowed. The loans made by the United States to both Britain and France were largely spent in the United States for the purchase of war supplies, often at profiteering prices. The present administration in the United States has realized that the country has not dealt generously enough with its debtors and hence the Hoover Moratorium. Germany claims she can no longer pay reparations on their present basis and a commission of banking experts has recommended a drastic revision of the Young Plan. The question now looming before the nations interested is how far war debts are to be cancelled if reparations are pared down.

After the Napoleonic Wars Britain, realizing the need of world reconstruction, forgave the debts owed to her by her allies in those wars, and incurred because of their prosecution. She did this so that the world could regain prosperity as speedily as possible. It may be recalled that the late Lord Balfour in 1922 made the proposal that the British Government was willing to forego the amounts owed to it by European nations if the United States would forgive its debtors half as much. It was a magnanimous proposal but fell on deaf ears. The consequence is that the world finds itself in the financial impasse of the present time. Britain had world vision in financial affairs after 1815, and again after 1918. The key to unlock the gate of opportunity for renewed world prosperity is now in possession of the United States and has been held by the country since 1918, but so far it has remained unused.

BUTTER AND TRADE TREATY

The benefits that Canada has derived through increased butter production, which has meant greater ability to supply her own needs and to extend her export market, are directly traceable to duties put into effect by the Bennett Government against the Australian and New Zealand products. The Dominion is now well on the way to regaining the markets she lost during the years following 1925 when the Mackenzie King regime reduced the duties on the products of creameries of the Antipodes and permitted this country to be flooded with butter products from New Zealand. In butter, Canada exported for the twelve months during October, 1930, only 1,157,400 pounds. Her exports for the twelve months ending October, 1931, have increased to 9,922,800 pounds, due to the tariffs imposed by the present Government at Ottawa.

Whatever is the nature of the arrangement entered into between this Dominion and New Zealand, as a result of the present conversations at Honolulu, our Government should safeguard the butter market for our producers. Western Canada particularly has suffered too much in the past. Our creameries have had to compete with the cheap flush production from the Antipodes through imports which came into this country at a time when Canadian costs of production were approximately five cents per pound higher than during our own Spring, Summer and Autumn seasons. It is thus, during our Winter season, that the chief protection is required. The dairying interests of British Columbia have asked the Dominion Government to insure, in any new treaty arrangements, that a fixed landed duty paid cost price of not less than 27 cents per pound be fixed on any Antipodean butter that is imported to Canada during the Winter season.

There is a good deal of rot talked about the danger of offending New Zealand and Australia in the attitude adopted by Canada where her butter products are concerned. A fact that does not seem to enter into the consideration given to the subject by those who oppose the development of the dairying industry in this Dominion is that both Australia and New Zealand, in the matter of butter, are protected at every season of the year by duties far in excess of those at present prevailing against their product imported to this Dominion. It might logically be asked if New Zealand, for instance, would agree to Canada shipping her exportable surplus to that Dominion during the flush season in this country. That is an incredible suggestion. New Zealand has a 14 cent duty against Canada at all times where butter is concerned. There is something wholly illogical in the attitude of those interests in this Dominion, who obviously have the desire to strangle our butter industry, in their contention that we should give most favored terms to New Zealand and Australia while those parts of the Empire should be permitted to exclude altogether any butter products from Canada.

A trade treaty such as is now being negotiated between this Dominion and New Zealanad implies reciprocal benefits in which no industry in either country should be permitted to suffer. Those in this Dominion who, for political reasons, are preaching a gospel that would stifle the Canadian dairying industry for the benefit of New Zealand's producers want a one-sided arrangement in the matter of this commodity. They want to bring about a perpetuation of the blunder of our Liberal administration in 1925 when New Zealand was given the benefit of reduced duties, a condition which created a difficulty that would never otherwise have arisen. In other words, were it not for the action of the Mackenzie King Government there would have been no difficulty today in negotiating a trade treaty with New Zealand because that country would not now be expecting a resumption of those special privileges which inflicted so great injury to our dairying industry which practically wiped out our trade in butter with the United Kingdom and which led to a heavy decrease in our own production for home consumption. No treaty arrangement with New Zealanad will be satisfactory that does not conserve our dairying industry. Agriculture in this Dominion is in no position to face piecemeal impairment.

NEW ANGLICAN BISHOPS

The consecration today in Vancouver of two of its leading clergymen to the episcopate is an occasion commanding wide interest. Rev. Canon A. H. Sovereign, rector of St. Mark's Church, has been designated to the Diocese of Yukon of the Church of England, and the Very Rev. R. J. Denison, of Christ Church Cathedral, to the Diocese of Athabasca. The two ecclesiastical provinces of British Columbia and Rupert's Land will unite in the ceremony, the former because of the local connection of the bishops-designate, and the latter because their dioceses are within its bounds.

Both the Diocese of Yukon and the Diocese of Athabasca are distinctly missionary in character. The immense areas and little population, much of which is of Indians and Eskimos, will now be the field of men accustomed to the intense life of a cosmopolitan city. The church must look after the frontiers, and the Church of England is to be congratulated in its choice. Friend of humanity and alpine climber, Bishop Sovereign will be well fitted for the mountainous Yukon and its scattered family of souls. Bishop Denison began his career as a missionary to the Indians, and is thus adapted to minister to the needs of his growing diocese in the Northland. It is a healthy sign when men of commanding power respond to the church's call to lonely and trying service.

A factor operating against the League of Nations is its expense. This has resulted in several countries ceasing to be contributors, and, presumably, also members. Britain continues to pay $690,000 annually, and probably will go on paying her share as long as the League exists. The United States contributes nothing, and yet again and again is invited to sit in as an honorary member. The arrangement is far from being fair. The recent interposition of the League in the Manchurian problem and its failure illustrates that the nations concerned should be entitled to expect a return for their contributions. It may be doubted if the League would have interfered in this respect except with the desire of forwarding American policy in the Far East, and the United States participated in the latest councils of Geneva without contributing anything for the privilege.

WHEN YOU ARE OLD

When you are old, and I am passed away—
Passed, and your face, your golden face, is grey—
I think, whate'er the end, this dream of mine
Comforting you, a friendly star will shine
Down the dim slopes where still you stumble and stray.

So may it be: that so dead yesterday,
No sad-eyed ghost, but generous and gay
May serve your memories like almighty wine,
When you are old.

Dear heart, it shall be. Under the sway
Of death the past's enormous disarray
Lies hushed and dark. Yet though there come no sign
Live on well pleased; immortal and divine
Love shall tend you as God's angels may,
When you are old.

OYSTER RIVER RELIEF CAMP

Sir,—Will you permit me to use a small space in your paper on behalf of the men in Relief Camp No. 107. We appreciate very much what the Government has done for us, but, owing to the long time out of work, we have no tobacco and we would be very thankful if some kind friends could send us some. There are twenty men in camp.

WILLIAM CARSON.

FASCISM

Sir,—Mr. Grigoletto's letters prove that he is a blind partisan who swallows all the false propaganda of the Fascist press. Views so formed are valueless, for the truth can only be discovered by an exhaustive review of the evidence on both sides. Anyone, who studies carefully, as I did, the case as stated by Villari, the leading publicist of the Fascists, in "The Awakening of Italy" and "The Fascist Experiment," and then notes how its falsity is clearly demonstrated by Salvemini, the leading opposition writer, in "The Fascist Dictatorship," can see plainly that the Fascists conceal or misrepresent almost all the relevant evidence. As a result I have not been able to find a single correct statement in either of the letters of your correspondent. He says that "he challenged my three points as unsupported statements showing they had no foundation." On the contrary they are simple historical facts, the first clearly established by the evidence, the second and third matters of record and therefore indisputable.

The evidence on my first point for the existence of a system of "punishment of adverse criticism" is given in Salvemini's work and covers 432 pages. Consequently, to speak of my first point as "unsupported statement" and ask for the evidence in a letter, when it is far beyond the compass of any newspaper correspondence, is a confession of ignorance. I have further adduced in support the more recent evidence of the extensive use of a system of condemnation of political opponents without trial, which is amply sufficient to convince any rational person who is not a Fascist partisan.

Mr. Grigoletto could not deny the truth of my statement, but resorted to what lawyers call a plea of "confession and avoidance" by saying that punishment was confined to cases of "mud slinging." The cases I instanced of Nitti and Roselli prove this defence to be a reckless invention. Instead of generously admitting his blunder, he calmly proceeds to substitute a new defence consisting of two pleas that are inconsistent with each other and with his former defence, and, in fact, demolish his whole case. The first plea is that the reason for detention without trial is that "prevention is better than cure."

In other words, men are imprisoned on account of an offence they have not yet committed. That is "despotism as it is commonly understood," the very thing he is trying to deny.

The second plea is that we must assume "there were sufficient reasons for these arrests"; in other words, the plea is that "Fascism can do no wrong," the very doctrine that is the acid test of despotism. Under free institutions a man is innocent until he has been heard in his defence and found guilty. Under Fascist despotism a man like Roselli, who took no part in politics, is not only assumed to be guilty but denied the right to prove his innocence. That equally is "despotism as it is commonly understood" by everyone in Canada except a handful of Fascist fanatics.

Moreover, his argument is plainly untenable. It is for the law to define what actions are culpable, and when people are deported without trial it follows that they have not exceeded their legal rights, otherwise they would have been prosecuted. It is known that in several of the earlier cases "Mussolini was undoubtedly actuated by personal rancor." How little justice has to do with these political persecutions is illustrated by his statement on learning that the Milan judges had acquitted Serrati and other political opponents. "The next time such a thing occurs I will send a patrol of national militia to await the released prisoners. The bench acquits and I shoot."

It was to prevent his opponents thus proving their innocence that he instituted this system of imprisonment without trial, in gross violation of the constitution, as I will prove hereafter.

His attitude towards political opponents is best stated in his own words when addressing the Opposition in the Chamber on June 6, 1924: "We have admirable teachers in Russia. We have but to initiate what is being done in Russia. They are admirable masters. We are wrong not to follow their example completely. You would have got a charge of lead in your backs. There is still time and we will show you sooner than you think."

Four days later he caused Malteotti, his ablest opponent, to be kidnapped by his agents and murdered. For the evidence, see Salvemini, pages 317-432. Again he says: "Fascism is following the example of your comrades in Russia, you scoundrels of the Socialist party. He who betrays, perishes." "Betrayal" is Mussolini's pet word for adverse criticism. I need scarcely add that Italian Socialists are not Communists and that these men were not scoundrels, but duly elected legislators. And again he says, "If necessary we shall use the bludgeon and also steel." The buldgeon is the Fascist weapon used principally for breaking the jaws of political opponents, also to murder them. Or again note his telegram of March, 1924, to the prefect of Turin: "I hear that Gobetti is now in Sicily. Be vigilant in making life difficult again for this stupid opponent of Fascism." "To make life difficult" is the Fascist formula indicating that an opponent is to be exposed to every kind of violence, not excluding murder. The life of this gifted and high-minded young man of twenty-five was rendered so difficult that he had to escape to Paris in Winter while ill from influenza and died there in hospital, leaving in Turin a young widow and newborn baby. This is the type of despot who we are told can be trusted to dispense with courts of justice.

I must not lengthen this letter, but I shall be pleased to answer the challenge in the last paragraph of Mr. Grigoletto's letter if he will be good enough not to interrupt me. He has not yet allowed me to get to his reply to my second and third points, although he invited me to "explain why Fascism is a despotism," not to expose Fascist fallacies in debate, a much longer and a very boring job.

The Rhyming Optimist

By Aline Michaelis

THE OLD ALLURES

They say love thrives
On mystery—
Love, which survives
Through history
By being fed
On hope's sweet wine.
By being led
To heights divine
Where, though hope ever
Casts its gleam,
Fulfilment never Breaks the dream.

Yet, strangely, men
Will in the end
Turn back again
Where, like a friend,
An old path guides
To some dim room
Where faith abides
And memories bloom.

The time used is Pacific standard for the 120th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figures for height serve to distinguish high water from low water. Where blanks occur in the table, the tide rises or falls continuously during two successive tidal periods without turning.

The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, measured from the average level of low water.

To find the depth of water on the sill of the Esquimalt drydock at any tide, add 16.9 feet to the height of high water as above given.

COUNCIL FAVORS WOMAN ON BOARD

Would Appoint Representative as Police Commissioner—Considers Beer Plebiscite

VANCOUVER, Jan. 5 (CP).—That at least one woman should be included on the board of the police commission was the resolution submitted by the sub-executive of the Local Council of Women to the general meeting of the council, which was held on Monday, with Mrs. H. J. K. Labsik in the chair.

It was moved that a strong delegation be appointed to interview the City Council on this question. It was further suggested by the sub-executive that candidates should be named for the office at the general meeting, and as a result Mrs. D. M. McKay, Mrs. J. Z. Hall and Mrs. Helen Gregory MacGill were nominated for the position. A small committee will be formed to interview these women.

COUNCIL NOMINATION

Nominations for the provincial council were as follows: president, Mrs. D. J. McLachlan; first vice-president, Miss Crease, of Victoria; corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. C. Bagley, and recording secretary, Mrs. Frank Reynolds.

The annual meeting of the local council will be held on March 7 and 8, and the provincial council will meet in Victoria in February.

BEER PLEBISCITE

A resolution from the Local Council of Women of Chilliwack, stating that the Attorney-General had ruled that under the present Liquor Act there is no provision permitting a community that has once pronounced in favor of beer parlors to hold another plebiscite later, declaring against such sales, and urging the Provincial Government to enact such legislation at the coming session as will rectify such an anomalous situation, was also read and approved.

Belgian firms want prices on alfalfa meal for cattle feeding. Hides and skins are the subject of inquiries by a Hamburg concern in Germany. A Glasgow firm seeks Canadian waxed paper for wrapping confectionery. Electrolytic, fire-refined and blister copper is sought by a London, England, foundry.

Details of these inquiries may be had on application to the Provincial Bureau of Information.

TO AID MANITOBA IN OBLIGATIONS

Federal Gov't to Assist Provinces in Meeting Interest Payments in New York

WINNIPEG, Jan. 5 (CP).—The Dominion Government will assist Manitoba in meeting its maturing obligation of $2,000,000 in treasury bills, which falls due January 15 in New York, Premier John Bracken said today. Arrangements have been made to take care of the obligations, he added.

"I understand the Dominion Government is co-operating in a similar manner with the other provinces to assist them in meeting their obligations which are payable at New York," commented Mr. Bracken.

The Premier went to Ottawa last week to arrange for payment with the Dominion.

The treasury bills maturing represent a debenture issue of January 3, 1931, at an interest rate of 6 per cent.

THAT WORD "TANTALIZE"

One of our readers asks for the origin of the word "tantalize," which we find the dictionary dismissing with "From Tantalus—to tease by keeping something desired in view but just out of reach."

"From Tantalus"—and thereby hangs the tale. For the word has its origin in a story from classical mythology.

Tantalus, a son of Jupiter, was permitted to feast with the gods and even to share their secrets. However, his privileges "went to his head," to use a modern phrase, and he betrayed one of their confidences. As a punishment he was tormented with hunger and thirst. Popular representations show him bound, with a bough of luscious fruit suspended before his face, which retreated whenever he tried to reach it. He stood in water up to his chin, which, when he tried to drink it, flowed out of his reach.

And it is from the horrible experience of this poor Tantalus that we have our nice little word "tantalize!"

Church Brotherhood Holds Well-Attended Supper and Social

More than seventy members of the Metropolitan United Church attended the monthly supper meeting of that organization in the main classroom of the Sunday school, last evening. Dr. S. J. Willis acted as chairman, and at the conclusion of the repast introduced the guest speaker for the evening, B. C. Nicholas, who gave a very enlightening address on the "Outlook for 1932."

At the conclusion of his lecture, Mr. Nicholas was thanked by R. J. Smith and Rev. E. F. Church. Those present stood in silent tribute to the late S. J. Curry, a member of the brotherhood, who passed away yesterday morning.

During the evening, Frank Spooner rendered two tenor solos, while Rev. James H. A. Warr led in community singing.

BIG MONEY

by P. G. Wodehouse

CHAPTER I

On an afternoon in May, at the hour when London pauses in its labors to refresh itself with a bite of lunch, there was taking place in the coffee room of the Drones Club in Dover Street that pleasantest of functions, a reunion of old school friends. The host at the meal was Godfrey, Lord Biskerton, son and heir of the sixth Earl of Hoddesdon; the guest his one-time inseparable comrade, John Beresford Conway. Happening that morning to go down to the City to discuss with his bank manager a little matter of an overdraft, Lord Biskerton had run into Berry Conway in Cornhill. It was three years since they had last met, and in His Lordship's manner, as he gazed across the table, there was something of the affectionate reproach a conscientious trainer of performing fleas might have shown towards one of his artists who had strayed from the fold.

"Amazing!" he said.

Lord Biskerton was a young man with red hair and what looked like a preliminary scenario for a moustache of the same striking hue. He dug into his fried sole emotionally.

"Absolutely amazing," he repeated. "Here we have two birds—you, on the one hand; I, on the other—who were once as close as the paper on the wall. Our chumminess was a silent sermon on brotherly love. And yet I'm dashed if we've set eyes on one another since the Summer Peanut Brittle won the Jubilee Handicap."

"We just happened to miss each other, I suppose."

"But how?" Lord Biskerton was resolved to probe this thing to its depths. "That's what I want to know. How? I go everywhere. Races, restaurants, all the usual round. It seems incredible that we haven't met before. If you ask most people they will tell you the difficult thing is to avoid meeting me. It poisons their lives, poor devils. 'Oh, my sainted aunt!' they mutter. 'You again?' and they dash down side streets, only to bump into me comig up the other way. Then why should you have been immune?"

"Just the luck of the Conways, I expect."

"Anyway, why haven't you looked me up? I'm in the phone book."

Berry fingered his bread.

"I don't go about much these days," he said. "I'm living in the suburbs now, down at Valley Fields."

"You aren't married, are you?" asked Lord Biskerton with sudden alarm. "Not got a little wife or any rot of that sort?"

"No. I live with an old family retainer. She used to be my nurse, and she seems to think she still is," said Berry, his face darkening. "I heard her shouting after me as I left the house this morning something about had I got on my warm woolies."

"My dear chap!" Lord Biskerton raised his eyebrows. "These intimate details. Keep the conversation clean. She fusses over you, does she? They will, these old nurses. Mine," said Lord Biskerton, wincing at the memory, "once kissed me on the platform of Paddington Station, thereby ruining my prestige at school for the whole of one term. Why don't you break away from this old disease? Why not pension her off?"

"Pension her off." Berry gave a short laugh. "What with? I suppose I had better tell you, Biscuit. The reason I've dropped out of things and am living in the suburbs and have stopped seeing my old friends is that I've no money now."

The Biscuit stared.

"No money?"

"Well, that's exaggerating, perhaps. To be absolutely accurate, I'm better off at the moment than I've been for two years, because I've just got a job as private secretary to Frisby, the American financier. But he pays me only a few pounds a week."

"But doesn't a secretary have to know shorthand and all that sort of revolting stuff?"

"I learned shorthand."

"Golly!" said the Biscuit. "You must have been properly up against it."

"I was. If an old sportsman, on whom I had absolutely no claim, hadn't lent me two hundred pounds, I should probably have starved."

"But what on earth has been happening?" asked the Biscuit, bewildered. "At school you were a sort of young millionaire. You jingled as you walked. A twopenny jam sandwich for self and friend was a mere nothing to you. Where's all the money gone to? What came unstuck?"

Berry hesitated. His had been for some time a lonely existence, and the idea of confiding his troubles to a sympathetic ear was appealing.

"Do you really want to hear the story of my life, Biscuit?" he said wistfully. "Sure it won't bore you?"

"Bore me? My dear chap, I'm agog. Let's hear the whole thing. Start from the beginning. Childhood . . . Early surroundings. . . . Genius probably inherited from male grandparent . . . Push along."

"Well, you've brought it on yourself, remember."

The Biscuit mused.

"When we first met," he said, "you were, if I recollect, about fourteen. An offensive stripling, all feet and red ears, but worth cultivating on account of your extraordinary wealth. How did you get the stuff? Honestly, I hope?"

"That came from an aunt. It was like this: I was an only child——"

"And I bet one of you was ample."

"My mother died when I was born. I never knew my father."

"I sometimes wish I didn't know mine," said the Biscuit. "The sixth earl has his moments, but he can on occasion be more than a bit of a blister. Why didn't you know your father? A pretty exclusive kid, were you?"

"He was killed in a railway accident when I was three. And then his aunt adopted me. Her husband had just died, leaving her a fortune. That's where the money came from that you used to hear jingling at school. He was in the jute business, I believe."

"What a gruesome mess you must have been at three," said the Biscuit meditatively. "You were bad enough at fourteen. At three you must have made strong men shudder."

"On the contrary, Hannah has often told me——"

"Who's Hannah?"

"Hannah Wisdom, my old retainer."

"I see. The one who gets worried about your woolies. I thought for the moment you were introducing a new sex motive."

"Hannah has often told me that I looked like a little angel in my velvet suit. I had long golden curls——"

"This is loathsome," said the Biscuit austerely. "Stop it. There are certain subjects which should not be mentioned when gentlemen are present. Enter rich aunt. What happened then?"

"She did me like a prince. Sent me to school and Cambridge and surrounded me with every luxury and refinement, so to speak."

The Biscuit frowned.

"Obviously" he said, "there must be a catch somewhere."

"The catch," said Berry, "was this. During all those happy halcyon years when you and I were throwing inked darts at each other without a care in the world, my aunt, it now appears, had been going through her capital like a drunken sailor. I don't know if she ever endowed a scheme for getting gold out of sea water, but if not, that's the only one she missed. She died two years ago, leaving me everything she possessed. This consisted of about three tons of shares in bogus companies. I was right up against it."

"From riches to rags, what?" said the Biscuit.

"My aunt's lawyer, a man named Attwater, happened by a miracle to be one of those fellows who pop up every now and then just to show that there is a future for the human race, after all. He had an eye like a haddock and a face like teak; but, my gosh, beneath that rough exterior . . . ! He lent we two hundred pounds to keep me going—two hundred solid quid—and if ever I have a son he is going to be christened Ebenezer Attwater Conway."

"Better not have a son," advised the Biscuit.

"That money just saved my life. I managed, after running all over London for three months, to get a sort of job. And at night I used to sweat away at learning typing and shorthand. Eventually I got taken on as secretary by a man in the import and export business. He retired about a month ago and very decently shoved me off on to this fellow Frisby, who was a friend of his. That's how Frisby comes to own my poor black body now. And that," concluded Berry, "is why I am living in the suburbs and have not been mixing much of late with the Biskertons and the rest of the gilded aristocracy. And the really damnable part of it is that at the time when the crash came I was just going to buzz off round the world on a tramp steamer. I had to give that up, of course."

The Biscuit appeared stupefied.

"You mean to tell me," he said, "that you've been avoiding me just because you were hard up? You were ashamed of your honest poverty? I never heard anything so dashed drivelling in my life."

Berry flushed.

"It's all very well to talk like that. You can't keep up with people who are much richer than you are."

"Who can't?"

"Nobody can."

"Well, I've been doing it all my life," said Lord Biskerton stoutly, "and—God willing—I hope to go on doing it till I am old and grey. Do you suppose for a moment, old boy, that I'm any richer than you are? Why, I only know what money is by hearsay."

"You don't mean that?"

"I certainly do. If you want to see real destitution, old boy, take a look at my family. I'm broke. My guv'nor's broke. My Aunt Vera's broke. It's a ruddy epidemic. I owe every tradesman in London. The guv'nor hasn't tasted meat for weeks. And as for Aunt Vera, relict of the late Colonel Archibald Mace, C.V.O., she's reduced to writing Glad articles for the evening papers. You know—things on the back page pointing out that there's always sunshine somewhere and that we ought to be bright, like the little birds in the trees. Why, I've known that woman's circumstances to become so embarrassed that she actually made an attempt to borrow money from me. Me, old boy! Lazarus in person."

He laughed again, tickled by the recollection. Then he became grave once more and pointed the moral earnestly.

"The fact of the matter is, laddie, there's nothing in being an earl nowadays. It's a mug's game. If ever they try to make you one, punch them in the eye and run. And being an earl's son and heir is one degree worse."

"But I've always thought of you as rolling in money, Biscuit. You've got that enormous place at Sussex."

"That's just what's wrong with it. Too enormous. Eats up all the family revenues, old boy. Oh, I know how you came to be misled. The error is a common one. You see a photograph in Country Life of an earl standing in a negligent attitude outside the northeast piazza of his seat in Loamshire, and you say to yourself 'Lucky devil! I'll make that bird's acquaintance and touch him,' little knowing that even as the camera clicked the poor old deadbeat was wondering where on earth the money was coming from to give the piazza the lick of paint it so badly needed. What with the land tax and the income tax and the super tax and all the rest of the little taxes, there's not much in the family sock these days, old boy. It all comes down to this," said the Biscuit, summing up: "If England wants a happy, well-fed aristocracy she mustn't have wars. She can't have it both ways."

He sighed and fell into a thoughtful silence.

"I wish I could find some way of making a bit of money," he resumed. "I don't seem able to do it racing, and I don't seem able to do it at bridge. But there must be some method. Look at all the wealthy blighters you see running round. They've managed to find it. I read a book the other day where a bloke goes up to another bloke in a restaurant—perfect stranger with a rich sort of look about him—and hisses at him—the first bloke does—'A word with you, sir!'—addressing the second bloke, you understand. 'A word with you sir, I know your secret!' Upon which the second bloke turns ashy white and supports him in luxury for the rest of his life. I thought there might be something in it."

"About seven years, I should think."

"Well, if I try it, I'll let you know. And if they send me to the Bastille you can come and see me on visiting days and hand me tracts through the bars."

He ate cheese and returned to an earlier point in the conversation.

"What did you mean about buzzing off round the world on a tramp steamer?" he asked. "It sounded cuckoo to me. Why buzz round the world in tramp steamers?"

"Well, that's what I wanted to do—get off somewhere and have adventures. You know that thing of Kipling's? 'I'd like to roll to Rio, roll down, roll down to Rio. Oh, I'd like——'."

"Sh!" said the Biscuit, scandalized. "My dear chap! You can't recite here. Against the rules. Strong letter from the committee."

"I was talking to a fellow the other day," said Berry, with a smoldering eye, "who had just come back from Arizona. He was telling me about the Mojave Desert. He had been prospecting there. It made me feel like a caged eagle."

"A what?"

"Caged eagle."

"Why?"

"Because I felt that I should never get away from Valley Fields and see anything worth seeing. What chance have I of ever seeing the Grand Canyon?"

"Why not?"

Berry writhed.

"Haven't you been listening?" he demanded.

"Certainly I've been listening," replied the Biscuit with spirit. "I haven't missed a word. And your statement seems to me confused and rambling. As I understand you, you wish to roll to Rio. Why can't you? Rio is open for being rolled to at this season, I presume?"

"What about Attwater and that money he lent me? I can't pay him back unless I go on earning money, can I? (And how can I earn money if I chuck my job and go tramping round the world?"

"You want to pay him back?" said the Biscuit, startled.

"Of course I do."

"In that case there is nothing more to be said. If you intend to go through life deliberately paying back money," said the Biscuit a little severely, "you must be content not to roll."

There was a silence. Berry's face clouded.

"I get so damned restless sometimes," he said, "I don't know what to do with myself. Don't you ever get restless?"

"Never. London's good enough for me."

"It isn't for me. That man who had come from Arizona was telling me how you prospect in the Mojave."

"A thing I wouldn't do on a bet."

"You tramp about under a blazing sun and sleep under the stars and single-jack holes in the solid rock——"

"How perfectly foul. And not a chance of getting a drink anywhere, I take it? Well, if that's the sort of thing you've missed, you're well out of it, my lad. Yes, dashed well out of it. But do you mean to say you can't raise even a couple of hundred quid? Weren't any of these shares your aunt left you any good at all?"

"Just waste paper."

"What were they?"

"I can't remember them all. There were about five thousand of a thing called Federal Dye and three thousand of Something Development Company—oh, and a mine. I'd forgotten the mine."

"What! You really own a mine? Then you're on velvet."

"But it's a dud, like everything else my aunt bought."

"What sort of mine?"

"I don't know how you would describe it, because it hasn't anything in it. It started out with some idea of being a copper mine, I believe. It's called the Dream Come True, but it sounds to me more like a nightmare."

"Berry, old boy," said the Biscuit, "I repeat, and with all the emphasis at my command, that you are on velvet. Why people want copper, I can't say. If you carry it in your trouser pocket, it rattles. And if you put it in your waistcoat, you feel as if you had a tumor or something. And what can you buy with it? An evening paper or a packet of butterscotch from a slot machine. Nevertheless, it is an established fact that people do tumble over themselves to buy copper mines. What you must do—and instantly—is to sell this thing, pay old Attwater his money (if you really are resolved on that mad project) lend me what you may see fit of the remainder, and then you would be free to go anywhere and do what you jolly well like."

"But I keep telling you the Dream Come True hasn't any copper in it."

"Well, there are always mugs in the world, aren't there? It will be a sorry day for old England," said Lord Biskerton, "when one can't find some dupe to buy a mine, however dud. You say yours hasn't anything in it. What of that? My old guv'nor once bought shares in an oil well, and not only was there no oil, there wasn't even a well. I venture to say that, if you look about you, you will find a dozen fatheads willing and anxious to give you a few hundred quid for the thing."

Berry picked at the tablecloth. His was an imagination that never required a great deal of firing."

"Do you really think so?"

"Of course I do."

Berry's eyes were glowing.

"If I could find somebody who would give me enough to pay back old Attwater's loan I wouldn't stay here a day. I'd get on the first boat to America and push West. I can just picture it, Biscuit. Miles of desert, with mountain ranges that seem to change their shape as you look at them. Wagon tracks. Red porphyry cliffs. People going about in sombreros and blue overalls."

"Probably fearful bounders, all of them," said the Biscuit. "Keep well away is my advice. You're not leaving me?" he asked, as Berry rose

"I must. I've got to get back to work."

"Already?"

"I'm only supposed to takes an hour for lunch, and today isn't a good day for breaking rules. Old Frisby's got dyspepsia again and is a bit edgy."

"Well, push off, if you must," said the Biscuit resignedly. "And don't forget what I said about that mine. I wish I had had an aunt who had left me something like that."

At about the moment when Berry Conway had reluctantly torn himself away from his old school friend, T. Paterson Frisby, his employer, was seated in his office at 6 Pudding Lane, E.C.4, talking to his sister Josephine on the telephone.

T. Paterson Frisby was a little man who looked as if he had been constructed of some leathern material and subsequently pickled in brine. His expression, as he took up the instrument, was one of acute exasperation. His sister always irritated him, especially on the telephone, when her natural tendency to babble became intensified, and he was also suffering severely from those pangs of indigestion to which Berry had alluded in his conversation with Lord Biskerton.

A whole medical college of doctors had told Mr. Frisby to avoid roast duck, and as a rule he was strong enough to do so. But last night the craving had been too much for him. He had wallowed madly and recklessly in roast duck, tucking into the stuffing like a farmhand. Today had come the inevitable retribution. And on top of that Josephine was calling him up on the telephone.

"Lo?" said Mr. Frisby, and the word was like a cry from the pit. He toop a pepsin tablet from the bottle on the desk and tossed it into his mouth.

"Lo?" said Mr. Frisby.

A clear soprano answered him.

"Paterson! Is that you?"

"Ugh."

"Listen."

"I am listening, I tell you. Get to the point. And talk quick, darn it! Remember it's costing forty-five bucks every three minutes."

For Mrs. Moon was speaking from her apartment on Park Avenue, New York. And though it was the woman who would pay, waste even of other people's money was agony to Mr. Frisby. He possessed twenty million dollars himself and loved every cent of them.

WILLIAM POWELL IN JUNGLE FILM

Famed Screen Star in "The Road to Singapore," Opening Today at Dominion Theatre

In making the settings for "The Road to Singapore," showing at the Dominion Theatre today, starring William Powell, the resourcefulness of the property department was tried to the utmost. The scenes are laid in the Ceylonese jungle town of Khota, at the edge of the jungles, and in the jungles themselves, and all contrivances used were foreign.

It was necessary to manufacture replicas of tropical flowers, and import special cigarettes for this picture. A country newspaper of the Ceylon town had to be reproduced. Hand propelled ceiling fans were installed. Yokes, worn by natives for the purpose of carrying water, were made. A quaint bathtub was found and built into one set. Native jugs, skins, tom-toms and other decorations were made or imported. Whole groves of palm trees and great bunches of gigantic bamboo were moved bodily to the outdoor location for the picture. And every property had to be authentic and of the type used in Ceylon, for thousands who are familiar with that country will see the picture.

Enjoying Sports in the Rockies

BANFF, Jan. 5.—Testing the vaunted Winter sports facilities of Banff in the Canadian Rockies, Sir Frank and Lady Barnard, of Victoria, accompanied by Mrs. M. F. Driscoll, Mrs. C. F. Armstrong, Miss Daphne Pooley, Miss Marcia Prior and Mr. R. F. Driscoll, are registered at the King Edward Hotel for a ten days' vacation. The Banff curlers have arranged several special games for Sir Frank to participate in, and directly after arrival, the other members of the party donned ski attire and will spend every day on ski excursions around Banff and at the Mount Norquay ski camp.

A week's visit that grew into one of four is the story of the recent visit here of Major and Mrs. H. Panet, of India, who were registered as guests at the Mount Royal Hotel. During their stay, Major and Mrs. Panet engaged the services of the Mount Norquay ski camp instructor, and became very proficient in skiing, and made many long trips into the mountain interior. Major Panet is a nephew of Brigadier-General Panet, of Montreal. After a visit in Montreal, Major and Mrs. Panet will sail for England.

Best Remedy for Cough Is Easily Mixed at Home

You'll never know how quickly a stubborn cough due to a cold can be conquered, until you try this famous recipe. It is used in millions of homes, because it gives more prompt, positive relief than anything else. It's no trouble at all to mix and costs but a trifle.

Into a 16 oz. bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to make 16 ounces. This saves two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough medicine, and gives you a purer, better remedy. It never spoils, and tastes good—children like it.

You can actually feel its penetrating, soothing action on the inflamed throat membranes. It is also absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. At the same time, it promptly loosens the germ-laden phlegm. This three-fold action explains why it brings such quick relief even in those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest medicinal agents for severe coughs and bronchial irritations.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

APPLIES ONLY TO U.S. LINES

Surcharge to Effect Sections of Canadian Railways Across Border

MONTREAL, Jan. 5.—Operation of the surcharge in freight tariffs of railways in the United States will not immediately affect the Canadian National Railways, though applicable to those sections of their lines in United States territory, it was learned today at the headquarters of the national system.

While the railroads in the United States, commencing January 4, are permitted to increase their freight rates by means of a surcharge, graded according to different classes of commodities, "for the purpose of increasing their operating revenue and thereby improving their credit, and to enable them to maintain an adequate transportation system," the entire income from this surcharge is to be pooled for the purpose of assisting financially-weak railroads.

From the proceeds of this pool, in the hands of a financial corporation formed for the purpose, railroads which can show that they are in immediate need of funds will be able to borrow money at a fixed interest rate of 4 3-4 per cent.

The surcharge will, of course, apply on Grand Trunk Western and Central Vermont lines, on Grand Trunk lines in New England and on that part of the Duluth, Winnipeg & Pacific which is within the United States. Any borrowing which could be done from the pool on their behalf, however, would be limited to moneys required exclusively for those lines within the United States, not for the advantage of the Canadian National System as a whole. The surcharge, effective January 4 is to end March 31, 1933.

TRADE WAS IRREGULAR

Statement Issued by Chinese Customs Shows Extent of Canada's Business

Trade figures between China and Canada during 1930, as revealed in the customs returns and published in the December issue of The Chinese Economic Bulletin under the direction of the Ministry of Industries, at Shanghai, show that imports into China from Canada fell from 38,476,967 Haikwan taels in 1929, to 13,517,476 Haikwan taels in 1930, a shrinkage of 24,959,461 Haikwan taels, or roughly 75 per cent, while exports from China to Canada rose from 2,160,000 Haikwan taels in 1929 to 3,490,624 Haikwan taels in 1930, representing an increase of 1,330,325 Haikwan taels, or approximately 60 per cent. In both cases the difference between the figures for the two yearse is more marked than in the case of any other country with which China has trade relations.

A table covering Sino-Canadian trade for the past ten years in millions of gold dollars is of considerable interest, showing the remarkable variations in China's trade with Canada. In 1921 imports from Canada amounted to 9 millions and exports to .8 million; in 1922 imports were 7 millions and exports 1 million; in 1923, imports 8.2 millions, exports 1.6 millions; in 1924, imports 12.6 millions, exports .9 million; in 1926, imports 4.3 millions, exports 1.1 millions; in 1926, imports 4.3 millions, exports 1.2 millions; in 1927, imports 4.5 millions, exports .8 million; in 1928, imports 11.3 millions, exports 1 million; in 1929, imports 24.3 millions, exports 1.4 millions, and in 1930, imports 6 millions, exports 1.2 millions. The average for ten years, imports 9 millions, exports 1.2 millions.

The decrease in Canadian imports into China in 1930 compared with the previous year was approximately 25 million Haikwan taels, and was mainly brought about by decreased demand in the China market for Canadian wheat and flour. These two items total 32,198,-381 Haikwan taels in 1929, and 7,379,232 Haikwan taels in 1930.

STORM WARNINGS ARE DISPLAYED ON COAST

SEATTLE, Jan. 5 (AP).—With a low-pressure area over the Gulf of Alaska moving toward Washington, storm warnings were displayed today on Puget Sound and along the coast.

ROUGH WITH TELEPHONES

Lightning Puts Many Instruments Out of Business During Storm

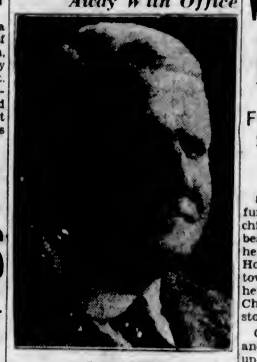

UCLUELET, Jan. 5.—Due to the severe storms that have lashed the entire West Coast for many days, much damage was done and shipping retarded, although no lives were reported lost. It was reported that lightning struck not far from Estevan lighthouse, but fortunately did little damage. The reduction plant at East Bay burned down during the gale and was a total loss. It is believed this was due to lightning.

Much damage was caused by severe lightning in Tofino and Long Beach. Windows were broken, trees fell, and the telegraph line was rendered useless for many hours due to lightning striking the line not far from the office in Tofino. The local phones were all out of commission as well as the cable to Vargus Island.

The lightning traveled along the line and rendered the Government phone at Long Beach useless. This was so badly damaged that a new phone is necessary and will be installed immediately. The linemen all along the coast were out making repairs and trying to keep up communication during the storm.

The approach to the Ucluelet road was blocked with huge logs and other driftage, and as yet it is impossible to clear it owing to the rough weather and big swells. The mail boat which plys between Port Alberni and Ucluelet was forced to miss her usual trip due to rough weather and big seas. One trolling boat coming down the canal reported it very rough, even in the inside waters, and that it was the worst trip its skipper had ever made on the Alberni Canal.

Railway Co. Does Away With Office

whose retirement, January 1, from the position of European vice-president of the Canadian National Railways, London, England, was announced recently by Sir Henry W. Thornton, chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways. The position will be abolished. P. A. Clews, European traffic manager, is appointed acting European manager in charge of European organization.

The railway career of C. J. Smith has been a notable one, dating back to 1879. After serving in various positions on many railroads in both Canada and the United States, he was appointed, in 1925, European vice-president of the Canadian National system, with headquarters at London, England, which position he held until his retirement. Apart from his railway interests Mr. Smith is widely known both in Canada and abroad. He was until recently president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in Britain and has been very active in promoting the interests of Canada in Great Britain.

SAILING TO SOUTH SEAS

Niagara Outbound This Evening—Pacific Grove Arrived Here Yesterday

Outbound for Sydney via Honolulu, Suva, and Auckland, the Canadian-Australasian motor liner Niagara, Captain T. V. Hill, commander, is due alongside Rithet Piers at 6 o'clock tonight, where she will remain for two hours, being scheduled to clear for sea at 8 o'clock. Several passengers from the South will board the ship here, and considerable United States mail will go aboard.

From ports in the United Kingdom via Panama and California, the Furness motor liner Pacific Grove, Captain James Anderson, arrived alongside of Rithet Piers at 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning, and after discharging 100 tons of general cargo, proceeded to Vancouver early in the afternoon.

Captain Anderson reported an uneventful voyage across the Atlantic, through the Canal and up the coast. When the ship left England, there were a number of passengers aboard, all leaving at the Southern ports.

In the course of a tour of inspection of Pacific Coast ports, W. Reardon Smith, eldest son of Sir William Reardon Smith, is expected to arrive in British Columbia toward the end of the present week. The company operates a bimonthly service between United Kingdom ports and Vancouver via the Panama Canal.

"What will be your chief aim now you are in the legislature?" asked the interviewer.

"To stay there," answered the laconic young statesman.

VIGILANT IS RACE WINNER

Five-Master First to Enter Strait—Commodore Now Towing In

SEATTLE, Jan. 5 (AP).—Her sails furled and the paint on her sides chipped and cracked from the steady beating of salt waves throughout her thirty-nine-day voyage from Honolulu, the schooner Vigilant was towed to drydock at Winslow, near here, today, as her master, Captain Charles A. Mellberg, told of the storms which were encountered.

Captain Mellberg's face was ruddy and wreathed in smiles as he looked up from a game of solitaire in his cabin as friends walked across the deck of his craft, victorious in a 2,387-mile race from Honolulu to Puget Sound against the four-masted schooner Commodore.

GALE AFTER GALE

"Yes, sir. We beat the Commodore in. She's had hard luck, though; and so had we. Storms! Gales! Why, it was one blasted blizzard after another.

"Our sails tore and ripped and blew holes in themselves, the sixty-seven-year-old sea captain continued, "and we had to keep h'isting new ones all the blasted time."

"Was the Vigilant becalmed?" asked a friend, thinking of the 1,400 miles which separated the Commodore and the Vigilant at one time.

"Becalmed!" the captain shouted. "Becalmed!" Holy sea-goin' grandma, our nose was ducking in heaving seas all the time and our sails catching as stiff a wind as could blow a man down.

BLOWING WRONG WAY

"Only," and Captain Mellberg slammed his big fist down with all the force of his 270 pounds, "she was blowing the wrong way most of the blasted time."

Most of the chairs, a big leather couch, stools, in fact, all of the furniture in the captain's quarters, except the chair and table over which the skipper was draping himself, were lashed in a corner.

"It all would have been washed away into the blasted briny," Capt. Mellberg explained.

In the galley, Vernon Todd, who doubled during the voyage as wireless operator and messmate, had strung up a little decoration of tinsel and Christmas bells.

"As long as we couldn't make port," he said, "we put on our own Christmas at sea."

HAD PLUM-PUDDING

That day, he explained, was made to stand out from the others by having plum-pudding for dessert, that was their Christmas.

"Now that we are home, we can have a real feast," he explained, as he prepared ham, Lima beans, soup, boiled potatoes and a pudding.

"We'll not have to scrimp now."

All eleven of the schooner's crew were sleepy as the vessel was towed into Winslow. They didn't sleep a great deal during the voyage, "What with storms, stout winds and just rotten weather." Most of them have heavy beards, not having had time to keep clean shaven.

The loser, the Commodore, was but a short distance outside of Cape Flattery at the entrance of the Strait of Juan de Fuca today in tow of the tug Goliah, bound for Bellingham.

"What bird is it," asked an inspector of a class of young children. "that is found in Africa and, although it has wings, cannot fly?" After some hesitation a little girl put out her hand. "Well, my little dear," said the inspector, "what is it?" "Please, sir, a dead one!"

World's Greatest Women Described by Lecturer

Professor J. Friend Day Places Florence Nightingale on High Pedestal of Fame in Lecture Before Women's Canadian Club at Empress

From a group of "Four Famous Women," who formed the subject of an interesting historical and character-analysis type of address which he delivered yesterday afternoon at the Women's Canadian Club meeting at the Empress Hotel, Professor J. Friend Day, head of the department of economics and commerce at the University of British Columbia, gave premier place to Florence Nightingale.

"If it were possible to discover a yard-stick by which attainment could be measured, the contribution made by anyone to humanity should surely be one of the first tests, and in this respect Florence Nightingale stands out," he commented, just before bringing his address to a close by quoting Longfellow's poem in tribute to "The Lady of the Lamp."

FOUR TYPES

Florence Nightingale was the great humanitarian of the four, the other three members of which were Queen Elizabeth of England, "a great nationalist"; Catherine II of Russia, "a great Empress who was an alien"; and Madame Roland, the Frenchwoman, "a republican and centre of Republican activities which pulled down the throne of France." These were selected with a view to covering four centuries and furnishing examples of four distinct types which had made a definite contribution to history, Professor Day explained. In each instance he gave a short biographical sketch of his subject before intimating the details of her contribution.

With the single exception of Florence Nightingale, a certain precocity, both in respect of learning and political ambition and interest, characterized the subjects. Elizabeth, at the age of fifteen, as the result of the conspiratorial conditions of the time and her own motherlessness, had developed a singular ability to protect herself and vindicate her life. This tendency was accentuated subsequently when Mary came to the throne, supported by Spain, and with her strength of character and English aims, she was "the most purely English monarch since the time of Harold."

THE VIRGIN QUEEN

Professor Day touched briefly on the conclusions of historians who have recently published their conclusions concerning the reasons why Elizabeth never married. Recent research had done much to vindicate her reputation and show that she had been a much-maligned woman and that she was, despite the doubts of some critics, "truly a virgin queen." Elizabeth was, moreover, one of England's first great nationalists, and had the Tudor's genius for sensing what the people wanted.

Catherine II, a Prussian by birth, sent as a political move to Russia to marry the archduke in order to weaken the influence of Austria, completely adapted herself to the life, won the affection of the Empress, and eventually became a Russian of the Russians, much loved, and much concerned in the wellbeing of her people, instituting many social and legislative reforms.

Mme. Roland, who early passed from Romanism to Jansenism, and who afterwards became a stoic and Deist, was painted in heroic colors going back to the block to be executed, "a great woman of whom it could be said she sowed the wind and reaped the whirlwind."

The president, Mrs. W. G. Wilson, presided, and Mrs. D. B. McConnan moved the vote of thanks. The two very charming solos sung by Mrs. W. H. Wilson, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Green, the numbers being "The Wren" (Benedick), and "Songs My Mother Taught Me" (Dvorak).

Smart Costumes for the Southern Holiday

CORDUROY, the cotton velvet fabric, which is high in favor just now, fashions this snappy sport suit, suitable for spectator sport wear, or for the golf links of the sunny South (1). This model is expressed in canary yellow with tan leather buttons, the wide sleeves allowing free movement of the arms. A matching beret of fancy woven wool is worn with the outfit and golf oxfords of two-tone calf in beige and brown. (2) Not only is corduroy velvet good for daytime wear but for informal evening or restaurant attire. The short black jacket with tied collar is worn over a heavy white crepe dinner frock with a "half hat," also fashioned of white crepe. The informality of the Southern hotel calls for just such a costume. (3)One would hope for a rainy day to go out sporting such an attractive wet weather ensemble. It is a symphony in grass green, with zipper opening on the trench coat. The goloshes are of dark green rubberized fabric and the stubby umbrella dark green silk.

SOCIAL EVENING IS BIG SUCCESS

British-Israelites Ask Special Intercession for Peace in India—E. E. Richards Gives Address

British-Israelites held a delightful social evening in the Alexandra Club on Monday, which was very largely attended. The proceedings were opened by a session of prayer, part of the Communion service being used, with special intercession for peace in India, the relieving of the world's economic stress and the clergy in their difficult tasks.

E. E. Richards then gave a brief summary of the rapid spread of British-Israel truth, which he stated stood foursquare on the word of God, and the great doctrines of the Christian church enunciated in the Apostle's creed. It had grown in Victoria from three or four members, twenty-five years ago, to upwards of two thousand believers today, with two branch associations.

The musical programme which was arranged by Mrs. Richards and Miss Moore was much appreciated and drew unstinted praise, those taking part were as follows: Pianoforte solo by Miss Joan Lucas, "The Swallow"; song by Miss Moore, "Tit for Tat"; recitation by Miss Barbara Clowes, "The Night Wind"; song by Miss Joan Lucas, "The Fairy Queen"; musical monologue by Miss Berryman, "In Love"; song by Miss Redfern, "A Brown Bird Singing"; pianoforte solo by Mrs. E. E. Richards, "Birds of the Forest"; recitation by Miss Barbara Clowes, "A Home Wanted"; song by Mr. French, "Anchored"; recitation by Mrs. S. H. Brake, "People Will Talk"; song by Miss Dinsdale, "A Little Irish Girl"; recitation by A. Wilson, "Caleb's Courtship"; pianoforte solo by Mrs. E. E. Richards, "Glory to God in the Highest." Miss Moore and Miss Bessie Lucas were the accompanists. The happy evening was closed by singing "Auld Lang Syne" and the National Anthem.

MRS. BESANT'S MANY BODIES QUITE BUSY

ADYAR, Madras, Jan. 5 (AP)—Mrs. Annie Besant, noted English theosophist leader, who recently was so ill here her life was despaired of, appeared unexpectedly today at a theosophists' convention and spoke for two hours.

"It's quite true," she said, "that I am doing a great deal of work at present out of sight. This frail body cannot do it, but my many other bodies do."

Pointing down to the earth, she continued: "I don't want just now to do much here, because I want my other selves to do much more up there. After I am gone I shall keep pouring down on you."

Mrs. Besant is over eighty.

Maison Tyrrell Entertain With Staff Banquet

Mr. A. Tyrrell, proprietor of the Maison Tyrrell (hairdressing), entertained at his annual staff dinner at Holley's restaurant on Monday night to mark the close of another successful year. The guests were seated at one long table, which was decorated with bronze chrysanthemums, covers being laid for seventeen. After dinner, three bowling teams were drawn up, and the players proceeded to the Olympic Alleys for an interstaff match, the lady's and gentleman's prizes being won by Mrs. F. Forrester and Mr. Colin Tyrrell, respectively.

YOUNG PEOPLE GREET THE NEW YEAR WITH GREAT ENTHUSIASM

The Young People's Society of First United Church opened the new year with a very enthusiastic meeting, when a large number of members were present. The worship service was conducted by Miss Dorothy Morton, who gave an inspiring talk on "Looking Forward Into 1932."

James McCague, president of the Young People's Union of the United Church, brought greetings to the society and announced that a rally of all the United Church Young People's Societies would be held at Fairfield Church on Monday, January 18. Douglas McLennan, president of Centennial Y.P.S., brought New Year's greetings from his society.

Enjoyable musical numbers were given during the evening by Misses Ina Easton, Elsie Robinson, Dorothy Morton and Jack Smith. Group games were played by those present, under the capable leadership of Miss Mildred Margison and H. Warren, of the recreation committee. Refreshments were served by Misses Annie Gough and Mabel Marshall, of the social committee, after which everyone joined in a campfire sing-song, led by George Gordon and Gordon Robson.

The feature of next week's meeting will be another of the series of interclass debates, between the Pasa-Pas Young Ladies' Bible Class and Onwegos Young Men's Bible Class, on a popular topic.

SCENIC PICTURES

Scenic pictures will be shown at the Garden City Church on Friday, at 8 p.m. A collection will be taken in aid of the choir fund.

CHILDREN'S COLDS

Says Dress Is Important

KAY FRANCIS

In My Wardrobe

Fashions Favored by Hollywood's Stars

By KAY FRANCIS

(Copyright, 1932, by the North American Newspaper Alliance, Inc.)

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 5.—Clothes are far more important in the modern woman's life than she generally admits. I, for one, am astounded when I realize just how many hours I devote to shopping, planning a season's wardrobe and standing in fitting rooms. And when I stop to think that my wardrobe is a very moderate one in view of the social demands of Hollywood, I am still more astounded.

There doesn't seem to be any easy solution to the knotty problem of keeping in the mode, for the times in which we live demand that the modern woman look her best at all moments of the day and night.

By the casting office I am described as the dark, slender type. So when I select clothes I always keep this in mind, and try to visualize myself—my features and figure—as if I were another woman. Then I concentrate on just how I would like to see this person dressed.

SUITS HER TYPE

By doing this I have discovered many interesting things about myself—what I can and cannot do in dress. For instance, I know I look barbaric and overdone in earrings, many bracelets, many rings, or even one necklace with an evening gown.

When choosing evening gowns I find that I cannot wear a fur trimming around the hemline, but must keep the fur around the neckline and on the cuffs. This is largely because I am over medium height, and must dress down to screen standards.

Strange though it may seem, gowns accented with sequins or brilliants are a poor choice for one of my type, though costumes created entirely in sequins are very effective.

FOR EVENING WEAR

For formal evening ensembles I always choose one color, as I think this better for a person of my dark coloring than a combination of hues. My favorite for evening is either all white or all black.

I like the new, broad shoulder line and the puff sleeves of the present mode, as they are so decidedly feminine. The little shoulder capes of fur, as worn with this season's suits, and the capped or puffed sleeves of the evening frocks, are also flattering to the tall slender type.

Naturally, every actress must have a fairly elaborate wardrobe, but if I were not in professional life and could do exactly as I pleased, my wardrobe would be very simple and decidedly limited. I would want many pairs of comfortable tailored pajamas, one attractive costume for the street, and one lovely evening frock and wrap. Then life would indeed be simplified.

Just Roamin' Around

BY TWO ROVERS

"Have you bought your 1932 Calendar for Funny Dogs, yet, master?" asked my sagacious hound, as I reclined in a post prandial, comfy and sprawling attitude, lazily dreaming of sundry very large helpings of New Year turkey, with trimmings.

"What kind of a swizzling calendar is that, Rover?" I asked him.

"Why! Whitty Cur's almanac," of course, was the astonishing reply.

Then, after an embarrassing pause, he suddenly sprung this on his unsuspecting master: "This is leap year, Boss; and it behooves all old bachelors, under the age of ninety and nine, to lay in a supply of silk (or imitation) dresses; just in case some half blind and altogether demented female of the species should be inclined to take a long chance!"

I have been thinking this improbable impossibility over; studying the almost unparalleled situation from all angles; turning the extraordinary examples that have come to my notice in the past over in my imaginative mind; and, I recall, first of all, this instance of the early progressiveness of feminine aggression and inconstancy, which perhaps throws a little light on the question of leap year proposals:

Scene: A children's party, circa 1884. On the stairs.

Boy (aged nine, to pretty girl, aged eight)—But you're not going to marry Jack, are you dear? You asked me to marry you, once!

Girl—Yes, but you said not till you were out of your knickerbockers, you know, and I couldn't wait all that time.

Boy—But you don't really love Jack, do you, dear?

Girl—Yes, I do I've got to, now we're going to be married.

Boy—But suppose Jack dies, dear, what will you do then?

Girl—Oh! I should go and cry over his grave once a week.

Boy—I'd let you garden on my grave, dear!

A short silence; then, exeunt boy and girl, severally!

And this is 1932! A Christmas letter from the granddaughter of Jack and the little girl winds up with a sweetly childlike proposal, as follows: "And, dear 'Unca R,' I'll marry you—when I grow up!"

Si jeunesse savait! Si viellesse pouvait!

WHERE THE BLACKBERRIES ARE

My heart is where the blackberries are;
For, blooming in those fields, afar,
With daisies, violets, bracken, too,
Are buttercups! There birds renew
Acquaintance with the cherries, Ah!
My heart is where the blackberries are!

And, where some ancient limes and yew
I well remember, butterflies flew
Above my head; while gates, ajar,
I used to swing on; e'en this scar
I won, when o'er the hedge I threw
Her favorite doll—where blackberries grew.

In Life's Fall—calm and Evening Star
O'er head—a night of dreams—unbar
Dear mem'ry gates! I would review
The long-lost years, that held those few
Short hours of love; in fields afar,
My heart's still where the blackberries are!

BRENTWOOD CHILDREN HAVE ENTERTAINMENT

The annual Christmas entertainment of the Mount Newton, Saanichton and Brentwood Anglican Sunday School children was held at the Women's Institute Hall, Brentwood Bay, on Saturday afternoon. The children had a jolly time with games and treasure hunts. Candies were given to each child. Refreshments were served by the ladies of the church.

"If a man smashed a clock, could he be accused of killing time?"

"Not if he could prove that the clock struck first."

TOURING XV MAY PLAY HERE TWICE ON RETURN

Rose City Quintette To Face Commercials At High Gym Tonight

Speedy Portland Cagers Ready for Fixture Against Locals—Buyats to Meet C.P.S. in Title Fixture in City League

Claiming to have a baseball quintette that moves up and down the court at lightning speed, Coach Ray Brooks will present his famous Multnomah club cagers to local fans this evening at the Victoria High School gymnasium when they take the floor against the powerful Commercials in the first intercity fixture of the season. As an appetizer to the main attraction, the Buyats will clash with the C.P.S. in a game which is expected to settle the whereabouts of the first half title of the senior "A" division of the Victoria and District League. The initial tussle will get under way at 7:45 o'clock, and an hour later the Rose City basketeers will step on the gymnasium to meet the Commercials. Tommy Macedo will look after the first game and Alan Le Marquand the second.

Victoria fans will see a team from Portland fully as fast, every bit as clever and just as strong as any Coach Brooks had led on his annual barnstorming tour. Only two members of the senior quintette of a couple of years ago are included on the personnel. They are Billy Keenan and Ray Smith, the remainder of the squad being chosen from intermediate ranks of the Multnomah Club. After combing his intermediate team, Brooks is confident that he has one of his greatest squads, and is confident of returning to the Rose City with a clean sheet.

TEAM'S SCHEDULE

Following the game at Duncan last night, the team returned to Victoria to prepare for tonight's fixture. From the city the visitors will head Up-Island, the first stop being Ladysmith. Nanaimo will be the next to see the Portlanders, while Alberni will witness them in action Saturday evening. The squad then heads for the Mainland, where they will meet the New Westminster Adanacs and the University of British Columbia, present Canadian titleholders.

Seven players constitute the team, including Billy Keenan, Ray Smith, Dick Applegate, Ray Dempsey, Bud Green, Len Yandle and Jimmy Reimer. Although diminutive in stature, the quintette is speedy, accurate passers and brilliant shooters from any angle. They are expected to delight the fans with a flock of plays, never seen in Victoria before.

The Commercials will be strong, with "Chuck" Chapman, Art Chapman, Muzz Patrick, Tommy Little Lloyd Jones, Johnny Craig, Harold Engleson and Joe Ross in uniform. This squad will have a decided weight and heighth advantage over their opponents.

TITLE AT STAKE

With the first half championship at stake, Buyats will be out with their usual strong outfit with hopes of taking the lumbermen for a ride. Last week Buyats more than doubled the score on the C.P.S., but the lumbermen have had a few stiff workouts under their belts since then, and are confident of reversing the verdict.

Colin McKenzie, Darrel Bissell and Buzz Brown will alternate at guard positions for the Buyats, while Jack Caddell, Lynn Patrick, Harold Sheppherd, Fred McDonald and Alex Cudlip will be on the offensive. Besides Skipper "Stew" Skillings, the following will represent the C.P.S., Jack McKenzie, Ralph Butler, Gordie Wooldridge, George Davis, George Fagerberg and Tommy Watcher.

MAX CAREY PLANS BIG SHAKE-UP

Dodgers' Pilot Will Try Out Twelve New Players in Spring

PITCHING STAFF TO BE STRONGER

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP).—You will scarcely recognize the Brooklyn Dodgers, erstwhile 'happiness boys of baseball,' when the 1932 season rolls around."

Max Carey is authority for the statement it will be a different-looking ball club.

Although the club owners have provided Carey with twelve "new" players, the innkeeper at Clearwater will require few introductions when the squad reaches training camp. Of the eleven men recalled from Hartford, Dodger farm, all but one were with the parent team at one time or another in 1931. The only bona fide new Dodger is Arthur Jones, a pitcher purchased from Kershaw, S.C.

FOUR NEW PITCHERS

The outstanding prospects among the Hartford contingent are four young pitchers, Phil Gallivan, Van Mungo, John Krider and Earl Mattingly. They fairly burned down the Eastern League last season between them, winning 60 games and losing 18.

Frank O'Doul, Floyd (Babe) Herman and Johnny Frederick are to return to the outfield.

Del Bissonnette, who recently underwent a successful operation on his throwing arm, faces no real competition at first, and Walter Gilbert will return to his post at third.

Captain Glenn Wright, whose ankles failed him last season, has announced he will be in shape again, and expects to reclaim his job at shortstop. Fresco Thompson, ailing much of last season, may lose out to Young Mickey Finn at second.

Though his fast one isn't what it used to be, Dazzy Vance is expected to head the pitching staff.

Al Lopez and Ernest Lombardi will be back to divide the catching.

ELLSWORTH VINES WILL PREPARE FOR DAVIS CUP GAMES

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5 (AP).—Ellsworth Vines, national tennis champion, said today that he would take a leave of absence from his studies at the University of Southern California next month to get in shape for the Davis Cup matches.

The Davis Cup tryouts come in April and Vines said the only tournament play he contemplated before then would be a series of matches in Honolulu. An invitation has been extended to him to play there in March. He said he would not enter the Florida Spring tournaments.

Will Meet Commercials Tonight

CRACK Multnomah Club cage squad from Portland, which will appear at the Victoria High School gymnasium this evening against the strong Commercials in the first intercity fixture of the season. Buyats and C.P.S. will clash in the first fixture in the senior "A" division of the City League. A win for the Buyats will give them the first half crown. In the above picture are Billy Keenan, Ray Smith, Len Yandle, Jimmy Reimer, Dick Applegate, Ray Dempsey and Bud Green.

Signal Honors to Be Accorded Rugby Team

Canadian All-Stars Will Be Guests of Commander-in-Chief of Combined Imperial Fleets on Board His Giant Flagship

By PERCY WHITING
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.

TOKIO, Jan. 5.—One of the most signal honors received by the Canadian Rugby aggregation in their visit to Japan will be when they are entertained by Vice-Admiral Seizo Kobayashi, commander-in-chief of the Imperial combined fleets, on board his flagship, the 33,800-ton battleship Nagato, in the harbor of Yokosuka, Japan's premier naval port.

It will be the first time for any foreign sports aggregation, or similar party, to be entertained in this way by the commander of the combined fleets of Japan.

MARK OF REGARD

It is a mark of regard for Canada, and is also due to the great interest taken in foreign affairs and the furtherance of good international relations, by Admiral Kobayashi. It is significant that he has chosen the visit of a Canadian party to give his first international entertainment of this kind.

While at present Admiral Kobayashi is fleet commander, he is regarded as a man with a Cabinet future, and very likely to become Minister of the Navy later on. He has already been Vice-Minister of the Navy, and was a member of the Japanese delegation at the three-power naval conference at Geneva, and is one of the most brilliant men in the Japanese navy.

The entertainment on the Nagato will be on January 18, following a tour of the famous town of Kamakura, near Yokosuka, and of the Yokosuka port and docks.

TITLE BOUT PAPERS NOT YET SIGNED

Remuneration to Be Given Walker Said to Be Causing Trouble

BATTALINO-FELDMAN MIX CAUSES CONCERN

By EDWARD J. NEIL

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP).—Max Schmeling and Mickey Walker have not signed for a heavyweight title match in February, and no one concerned knows when and whether they will—but it is nothing for the faithful to worry about.

It seems there is to be a featherweight title match, fifteen rounds, with Christopher "Bat" Battalino, of Hartford, placing his crown in jeopardy against Lew Feldman, in Madison Square Garden, Friday night, and as far as the ballyhoo is concerned, the less said about anything else at the moment the better.

So Jack Kearns, manager of Walker, stayed away from the Garden today, and there was much discussion concerning Battalino's ability to take off ten pounds within a few days and be strong enough to defeat Feldman, the challenger, who was soundly thrashed by Kid Chocolate recently.

"For goodness sakes," demanded Jimmy Johnston, plaintively, "isn't a featherweight championship match enough to write about without worrying over Schmeling and Walker?"

SERIOUS SITUATION

Ostensibly there is a very serious situation in the process of being solved, and concerns the remuneration to be given Walker for his title chance. Schmeling already has agreed to take a 40 per cent of the receipts of a Florida match on February 25, while Walker, offered 12½ per cent, demands 20 per cent.

There possibly will be a compromise before Feldman fights Battalino, but Johnston has high hopes that very little will be said about it.

There is also a slight suspicion that the Garden already has the contracts safely tucked away in the safe.

Schmeling, starting his exhibition tour in Paterson, N.J., Thursday night, spent a happy day "putting the leap" on friend and enemy alike with his new toy, a buzzer attached to a ring on his right hand, that goes off with a frightening whirr every time he shakes hands.

It was such a demoralizing success yesterday on his arrival here from Germany, that Max went around town today making new friends, greeting old ones, roaring at all of them as they leaped high in the air and howled loudly when he gave them "the business."

After touring Broadway with great success he wound up the day shaking hands with an awe-stricken taxicab driver, who nearly fell under his vehicle when the hand bomb went off. When last seen Max was merrily heading into a moving picture palace, shaking hands with himself.

VON ELM AND PARTNER WIN

Lead Field in $2,500 Pro-Amateur Meet—Ten Teams Second

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Jan. 5 (AP).—Although they barely qualified yesterday, George von Elm, runner-up to the national open title, and his amateur teammate, Stanley Turner, both of Los Angeles, yesterday cracked out a par-plundering 66 in the face of a stiff wind to win the second annual Santa Monica $2,500 amateur-pro golf tournament.

But for some poor putting on the thirteenth, seventeenth and eighteenth holes, the winning twosome might have cut three more strokes off its card. As it was, the pair turned the first nine when the wind was at its height in 31, four under, and then came home in 35, one under. Their best ball score was five under par, and Von Elm had a 70 to his credit.

Ten teams tied for second place, a lone stroke behind the winners, with composite cards of 67, while six others tied for twelfth with 68's and thirteen more tied for eighteenth with scores of 69, so close was the competition.

As the victor's share, Von Elm won $300. The ten second-place teams brought the pro members $75 each, while the group of 68's were good for $41.66 to the professionals, and the 69's, $15.30 each.

WIND HAMPERS PLAYERS

The wind, coupled with the stress of the final round, had much to do with the fact that the winning score was still a stroke behind the low qualifying cards of 65 turned in by two teams yesterday and four on Saturday.

Those who tied for second:

John Bohanon, Los Angeles, and Lex Robson, Toronto, 34-35—67.

Fay Coleman, Culver City, and Ray Mangrum, Los Angeles, 33-34—67.

Harold Peterson, Los Angeles, and Abe Espinosa, Chicago, 34-33—67.

Bobby Tobin, New York, and Clarence Clark, Bloomfield, N.Y., 31-36—67.

Nick Schaefer, Los Angeles, and Eddy Loos, Chicago, 36-31—67.

John Dawson and Harry Cooper, Chicago, 34-33—67.

George Foelschow, San Diego, and Leo Diegel, Agua Caliente, Mexico, 33-34—67.

Harry Wesbrook, Pasadena, and John Golden, Stamford, Conn., 33-34—67.

Roland Mackenzie, Washington, D.C., and Jimmy Thomson, Colorado Springs, Colo., 34-33—67.

Gerald Kerr, Santa Monica, and Joe Paletti, Chicago, 32-34—67.

GAMES WITH LOCAL AND B.C. REP TEAMS ARE POSSIBILITIES

Dominion Rugby Union Anxious to Match Against Victoria Reps and All-Canada Team Here on Feb. 23 and in Vancouver on Feb. 27—Local Officials to Consider Proposals

British Columbia All-Star and Canada XV Game Here on March 2

Canada's all-star English Rugby fifteen, which is now on the high seas bound for Japan for a tour of the Orient, will make two more appearances before local fans before they disband, if the tentative list of fixtures released yesterday by local Rugby officials are carried out. Information received states that the squad, on its return from the "Land of the Rising Sun," will play three games, two in Victoria and one on the Mainland. President J. Fyfe Smith, of the Dominion Union, stated last Saturday, before embarking with the ruggers, that he wished at least three games in British Columbia on the team's return late in February.

Expected back on February 21, the Dominion aggregation will, in all probability, clash with a Victoria "rep" fifteen at the Royal Athletic Park on Wednesday afternoon, February 23. The following Saturday, Mainland fans will get another glimpse at the all-stars when they take the field at Brockton Point against a Vancouver "rep" team. The third and most important fixture will bring the Canadian fifteen against an all-star British Columbia squad on a local pitch on Wednesday, March 2. These three games should attract bumper crowds and serve as a great booster to the English code in the province.

ALL-STARS SHOWED CLASS

Just before leaving for Japan, the Canadian fifteen played three games, one against a local "rep" side and two on the Mainland against select Vancouver aggregations. The Dominion won all three games, but received plenty of stiff opposition. No doubt when the teams return they will be in much better shape, but at the same time the players selected to oppose them will also be in better condition, which means that the brand of Rugby will be of a high standard.

Victoria is expected to field a much stronger fifteen than on the first occasion, when they suffered a 14-6 defeat. In the last match on the Mainland, the Vancouver side gave the all-stars a great run for their money. The representative British Columbia squad should be formidable with the Victoria and Vancouver senior leagues to pick material from. With a few workouts together a provincial side would take the field at almost even odds against the Dominion representatives.

MIDWEEK CUP MATCH TO BE HELD TODAY

Hudson's Bay and Saanich United to Clash in Important Soccer Tilt

NAVY AND C.P.R. WILL BATTLE AT BEACON HILL

With the winning eleven earning the right to meet the Navy in the final for the silverware next week, Hudson's Bay and Saanich United will meet this afternoon at the Royal Athletic Park at 2:30 o'clock in the semi-final round of the Rennie & Taylor Cup series with their strongest line-ups on the field. In the second midweek fixture, C.P.R., the new entry in the loop, will tangle with the Navy on the lower Beacon Hill grounds in the opening game of the Pendray Cup series at the same hour.

The Bays-United match at the enclosure will hold the spotlight, although the fans will watch with interest the showing of the railway eleven against the sailors. Before Christmas the departmentals and suburbanites battled to a 1-1 draw in the same series and both clubs will be out to settle the argument today.

With Shrimpton in goal and McKenzie and Menzies at fullback, the Bays' back division will be strong. Cull, Woodley and Oakman will form the intermediate rank, while Newell, Fish, Obee, Small and Armstrong will make up the front line of attack. DEMPSEY TO TOUR AGAIN

Manassa Mauler Planning Another Trip Against Tougher Opponents

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5 (AP).—Jack Dempsey left by automobile today for Reno, Nevada, to train for his second comeback tour, which he said would begin February 1.

"I'll train for the next twenty-five days like I want," said the former world heavyweight champion. "When I pull out on my second tour, you may expect to see me weigh 190 pounds, the weight I'll make for Schmeling, if we box this Fall.

"This tour calls for bigger towns, smaller gloves, tougher opponents, and real fights."

"Jack's first show will be in some town outside Chicago," he said. "When Dempsey fights Schmeling he'll have to get an even split in the purse. Whether that fight ever takes place depends on Schmeling—not Dempsey. We'll be ready."

Italy's rayon production in 1931 is estimated at nearly seventy million pounds.

STRANGLER LEWIS PINS IRA DORN

SEATTLE, Jan. 5 (AP). — Ed (Strangler) Lewis, former heavyweight champion, gained a one-fall victory here last night in the main event of a wrestling card by taking the only fall of the bout from Ira Dern, Salt Lake City grappler. Lewis unloosed himself from one of Dern's many headlocks in the sixth canto of the eight-round bout and flung Dern through the ropes. Dern returned in a dazed condition and was an easy prey to Lewis' headlock and top body hold.

George Wilson, former University of Washington football star, took the semi-wind-up by winning two of three falls from Casey O'Dale, Georgia, heavyweight, with flying tackles. O'Dale scored the first fall in the second with an airplane spin.

EXPLANATION FOR YESTERDAY'S RIPLEY CARTOON

The Heat of a Lump of Coal—About 100,000,000 degrees of heat would be required to burn coals so completely that neither smoke, ashes nor cinders remained. This temperature, the magnitude of which makes our senses reel, has hitherto been connected with astronomical hypotheses only, involving the theory of collisions between two of the brightest fixed stars. Our sun is 92,000,000 miles away, and its surface temperature of about 10,000 degrees suffices to burn our skin severely even when exposed in our own moderate latitudes, in spite of the distance. Given an object 92,000,000 times closer and 10,000 times as hot, its heating capacity is a mathematical deduction.

White Sox Release Outfielder to Oaks

CHICAGO, Jan. 5 (AP).—Outfielder George Blackerby, who has had three trials with the White Sox and one with the Cleveland Indians, has been unconditionally released to Oakland, of the Pacific Coast League.

Blackerby has been a great hitter in the minors, but lack of confidence apparently ruined his chances of making good in the majors.

Tilden Believes England Has Good Chance in Tennis

NEW YORK, Jan. 5.—Even with the National champion, Ellsworth Vines, to depend upon, this country's chances of lifting the Davis Cup appear "extremely remote" to "Big Bill" Tilden, world professional tennis titleholder.

"If they were playing on this side I think we would have a chance," he said, "but I doubt very much we will reach the challenge round against France. I would not be surprised to see England win the cup."

JAPANESE SKI TEAM ARRIVES

Representatives to Take Part in Olympic Winter Games Reach Vancouver

VANCOUVER, Jan. 5.—Twenty-one members of the Japanese skating and figure-skating teams who arrived in Vancouver on Monday night on the Ss. Hikawa Maru, left over the Canadian National Railways this morning for Montreal, en route for Lake Placid, where they will take part in the Olympic Games to be held shortly. The party from the Orient occupied a special sleeper, and although they left Vancouver in a drizzling rain, they are looking forward to their trip across Canada. Their skis and skates are packed in fifteen crates.

The ski jumpers are under the supervision of T. Aso, who stated before departure that his boys were in perfect shape and quite confident they would take back with them a full share of the Olympic honors. "Our jumpers are clever, with much nerve, and we are sure they will win many honors," said Mr. Aso. Members of the ski party are: T. Hoshina, S. Iwasaki (captain), K. Yamada, I. Agaishi, M. Makita, Y. Takada, K. Kuriyagawa, T. Tsubokawa, K. Taniguchi and G. Adachi. The skaters are in charge of Y. Iida and M. Sato, with J. Hoshino, S. Kobayashi, J. Kitani, S. Ishihara, T. Uruma and Y. Kawarura as speed-skating competitors. The two figure skaters in the party are J. Oimatsu and H. Obitani. The party will go direct to Montreal, arriving on Sunday.

HANDICAP BADMINTON MEET GETS STARTED

The joint American mixed handicap badminton tournament between Victoria Indoor Tennis and Badminton Club and Willows got away to an excellent start Monday with twenty couples, divided into two sections, playing.

The north side was won by Miss Harper and J. P. Phillips, who, starting from minus 8, gathered together 130 points in nine matches. Four pairs tied for second place with 123 points each. The race for first place was not decided until the last match, when Mrs. Morley and Griffiths had to make fourteen points to win or thirteen points to tie, but after a good game with Mrs. Baker and G. L. Toms they found themselves on the short end of the score.

On the south side there was a close race for first place, which resulted in Miss Jackson and Hardie, who started at plus 2, beating Mrs. M. Harris and W. Bird, who were minus 7, by two points. Miss Radford and Holman were not far behind the leaders.

MULTNOMAH IN EASY WIN OVER DUNCAN

DUNCAN QUINTETTE DEFEATS LADYSMITH

DUNCAN, Jan. 5.—Blinding speed and brilliant marksmanship gave the touring Multnomah Club cagers, of Portland, their first victory of their Vancouver Island tour here tonight against Duncan Shell Oil quintette by a 47-24 score before a packed house. Although small in stature and lacking weight, the visiting Rose City basketers were never in danger and gave a great display to local fans before leaving the court. In the preliminary fixture, Duncan took a 38-21 decision from Ladysmith after a close battle.

The local lads fought valiantly the first half against their more polished and experienced opponents from Oregon and held them to a 22-17 lead at the interval. Coach Ray Brooks, the visiting mentor, sent his machine into high gear in the last half and they never stopped caging baskets until the final whistle. Duncan's squad tired rapidly at the terrific pace set by the Multnomah boys in the last session, and failed to hold their opponents in check.

Dick Yandle was the shining light of the visitors' attack, accounting for twenty of his team's points, getting ten in each canto. His shooting was a treat to watch, as he seldom missed from the most difficult angles.

"Buck" Kenneth refereed, and the teams follow:

Portland—Demsey (12), Yandle (20), Green (3), Applegate (2), Reimer (10), Smith, Keenan.

Duncan—Evans (6), Mottishaw (3), Smythe (8), Pitt (6), Stock (1).

Australians Capture Third Test Cricket Match by 169 Runs

Home Side's Great Second Innings Gives Comfortable Margin of Victory Against South Africans—Grimmett Bowls in Deadly Style

MELBOURNE, Australia, Jan. 6 (Wednesday), (CP).—The South African tail refused to wag this morning and Australia captured the third match and the rubber in the test cricket series between the two Dominions. Grimmett gave an excellent display of his bowling prowess to capture all three of the remaining South African wickets in their second innings, which ended for 225 runs. Australia won the match by 169 runs. Two games of the five-game series remain to be played.

When stumps were pulled last night the score was: Australia 198 and 554, aggregate 752; South Africa, 358 and 198 for seven wickets, aggregate 556. South Africa was thus faced with the task this morning of scoring 197 runs to win and with only three wickets left. They failed by a wide margin, their three wickets falling for 27 runs.

Vincent and McMillan resumed this morning. McMillan was soon caught by Wall at coverpoint from Grimmett's bowling. He had scored but one run. Vincent was caught by Ponsford in the slips after he had hit a splendid boundary blow for six runs off Grimmett. He had five fours included in his thirty-four runs and had batted forty minutes. The last South African wicket, that of Bell, fell to Grimmett for no runs.

The score card:

Australia, first innings, 198.
Australia, second innings, 554.
South Africa, first innings, 358.

EDGREN QUITS BOXING BODY

California Commissioner Is Dissatisfied Over Way Things Are Going

PACIFIC GROVE, Cal. Jan. 5 (AP).—With the declaration he "was not satisfied" with the way the State Athletic Commission has functioned, Robert Edgren, noted boxing critic and cartoonist, announced his resignation as a member today.

Edgren said he had forwarded his resignation to Governor James Rolph, by whom he was appointed one year ago. The veteran sport authority declined to amplify his statement. Dr. Harry Martin, of Los Angeles, and Chaplain L. C. Keeley, of San Francisco, are the other members of the board.

Friends of Edgren expressed the opinion that one of the reasons he was dissatisfied was that a wrestling permit had been issued to a promoter in Southern California against his wishes.

GAINS AFTER TITLE BOUT WITH GERMAN

British Empire Champion Issues Challenge to Three Fighters

HEINRICH MULLER IS SEEKING BOUT

LEICESTER, Eng., Jan. 5 (CP).—Immediately after the defeat of Reggie Meen, British heavyweight, by Heinrich Muller, European heavyweight champion, here last night, Larry Gains, of Toronto, British Empire heavyweight-champion, issued a challenge to the world. He names Muller, Primo Carnera and Max Schmeling himself.

Muller has replied by asking his manager to cable a New York promoter, seeking postponement of a Madison Square Garden contract for three weeks so he can fight Gains. Muller, a German, won in the fourth round of a scheduled fifteen-round tilt, the referee stopping the fight to save Meen from further punishment.

WANTS POSTPONEMENT

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (CP).—Officials of Madison Square Garden have not yet received word from Heinrich Muller, European heavyweight boxing champion, asking for postponement of a fight contract here. Muller is reported to be seeking a delay of three weeks in his scheduled appearance at the Garden to permit him to accept a challenge from Larry Gains, heavyweight champion of the British Empire.

It is pointed out here that if the European title match develops, there is little possibility, for some time at least, of the winner getting a shot at the crown now worn by Herr Max Schmeling. The German already is in line for a title match with Mickey Walker and has indicated his campaigning in defence of his title will be confined to only another bout this year, if he survives the first challenge. The second test would be against the former champion, Jack Dempsey, if Schmeling's plans go right. He has named several alternates, but in this group he has not mentioned Gains nor Muller.

Goal in Overtime Beats Canadiens; Leafs, Bruins Tie

Habitants Take One on Chin From New York Americans in Rugged Fixture, 2 to 1—Toronto and Boston Battle to Fast Overtime Three-All Draw at Hub City

Rangers Blank Montreal Maroons, 2-0

FORUM, MONTREAL, Jan. 5 (CP).—New York Americans overcame the jinx that seemed to keep them from scoring against the world champion Canadiens this season and took a 2-1 victory over the flying Frenchmen in an exciting National Hockey League game here tonight, tying the score just before the end of the game and gaining the winning tally in overtime.

Until tonight, Eddie Gerard's Americans had failed to score against Canadiens either in their first meeting here on in New York. It was Rabbit McVeigh who broke the spell tonight, scoring both goals for the visitors. The Canadiens had command of the play in the first and second periods, but in the third the Americans abandoned defensive hockey for a ripping attack that wore the flying Frenchmen down.

16,000 SEE DRAW

BOSTON, Jan. 5 (AP).—The high-flying Toronto Maple Leafs, in action for the first time this season in the Boston Garden, tonight were held to a three-three overtime tie by the determined Boston Bruins. The game, fastest of the season locally, attracted an overflow crowd of 16,000.

The opening score was easily earned, Dit Clapper gliding through King Clancy and Red Horner and fooling the Toronto goalie early in the first session. Late in the second period, both teams tallied twice. The Leafs jumped into the lead when Happy Day countered twice inside three minutes, the second tally without assistance. Bruins tied the score when George Owen pushed Clapper's assist inside Chabot's net and then pulled back into the lead after Art Chapman caged Yip Foster's assist against their short-handed rivals.

Andy Blair tied the score in the third, with Frank Finnegan and Hal Cotton assisting him.

Line-Ups

RANGERS WIDEN LEAD

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP)—New York Rangers kept their long winning streak intact tonight by defeating Montreal Maroons, 2 to 0, in a rough National Hockey League game. The victory gave Rangers a record of nine wins and two ties in their last eleven games.

The game was marked by rough play and a couple of flare-ups that threatened to develop into fist fights, but were stopped by quick action of referees and players. Eighteen penalties were called, and at one time, in the first period, three players from each team were in the "cooler" at once.

Rangers scored their first goal at the close of the second period with a neat three-man combination play. Frank Boucher made the counter after each of the Cook brothers had a hand in the passing. Young Cecil Dillon clinched the victory half-way through the third period when each team had one man off the ice. He caught the Maroon defence flat-footed on a fast solo dash after he had been ragging the puck, and sent a shot past goalie Flat Walsh without slowing down.

Walsh, recalled from the New Haven Eagles to replace the injured Normie Smith, turned in a great performance and prevented scores on at least half a dozen occasions when he seemed to have no chance.

Line-Ups

Rangers—Roach, E. Siebert, Johnson, Boucher, W. Cook, F. Cook. Subs—Miiks, Brennan, Dillon, Somers, Murdoch, Keeling, Gainor, Desjardins.

Maroons—Walsh, Conacher, Wilcox, Stewart, Smith, Northcott. Subs—Starr, McVicar, Babe Siebert, Robinson, Phillips, Ward, Thottier.

PERRY DEFEATS JEAN BOROTRA

British Tennis Ace Wins Christmas Cup Final at Paris From Frenchmen

PARIS, Jan. 5 (AP).—Frederick J. Perry, British tennis ace, swept aside the veteran Frenchman, Jean Borotra, to win the singles finals in the annual Christmas Cup finals at the Sporting Club de Paris Sunday. The scores were 2-6, 7-5, 6-1, 6-3.

Perry teamed with Christian Boussus of France Saturday to win the doubles final from Marcel Bernard and Paul Feret of France, 6-4, 6-4, 6-3.

His victory over Borotra further emphasized the decline in the French veteran's game. Borotra, virtually unbeatable indoors in the past, had a virtual stranglehold on the Christmas Cup singles trophy for some years. He defeated Big Bill Tilden for the title in 1930.

Security Prices Little Changed At Wall Street

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP). — A couple of important dividend reductions and the suspension of a member firm failed to disturb the stock market seriously today. Prices firmed in the last hour after a previous sag, and by the close losses had generally been reduced to fractions or eliminated entirely.

The net change in the averages was a loss of one-tenth of a point.

Trading was dull, the smartest activity appearing on the upturn as nervous shorts covered.

Although a cut in the Sante Fe dividend had been expected, even to the extent decided on, the stock appeared somewhat unprepared for the news and broke 4 1-2 points to the lowest since 1917. It closed at 76, off 4.

American Telephone, which is the subject of unfavorable dividend gossip, dropped 2 to 107 3-4, although it reduced this loss to a small fraction. U.S. Steel duplicated Monday's low on a moderate sag and finished unchanged. Union Pacific got back two-thirds of a three-point loss.

Transactions totaled 1,422,649 shares, the smallest volume since December 24.

Failure of Gurnett & Company was accompanied by breaks in Waldorf System and Ludlum Steel, two stocks identified with the firm. Otherwise the suspension had no effect on the market.

Little of importance happened in foreign exchanges, although most currencies favored the dollar. Money eased slightly, the call rate dipping to 3 per cent in the afternoon.

With the exception of another somewhat sharp decline in United States Government issues, the bond market today continued in listless mood.

Precious Metals Show Small Gains—Mining List Remains Active

VANCOUVER, January 5.—Trading was slightly slower on the Vancouver Stock Exchange today, which may be attributed to the rather pessimistic attitude of the New York exchange, which shows further declines and predictions of continued bearish trend.

The largest number of shares were 12,600 Lorne Gold selling at a firm 14 1-2 to 15 cents, opening at 14 3-4 cents, which is 1-2 cent up from Monday's close, and closed at 14 1-2, up 1-2 cent. Several sales brought 15 cents during the day's trading.

"One of life's bitterest ironies," said the club poet, "is at the moment you are in the throes of composition, and pondering desperately whether necessity is spelt with two c's and one s, or one c and two s's, or two c's and two s's—to be reminded that there is a creditor waiting at the door for $50."

WHEAT MARKET GROWS FIRMER

Prices Advance Fractionally at Winnipeg—Broader Demand Is Anticipated

WINNIPEG, Jan. 5 (CP). — Despite laggard trading wheat prices firmed slightly on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today, with word of heavy loadings at Vancouver and encouraging foreign news. Fractional appreciations were shown in both futures, May closing at 62 3-8 and July at 63 3-8.

Stronger sentiment at Liverpool, coupled with Broomhall's report that offerings of native wheat in European countries were small and that native stocks in Great Britain were dwindling, which made it appear a broader demand for foreign wheat could not long be delayed.

Interest in the cash grades was indifferent and with the exception of a small domestic inquiry for oats there were no sales of any importance.

As the day progressed, however, sufficient weakness developed elsewhere in the market to leave gains in the minority, three to eleven, at the close. Almost all price changes were of a fractional variety. Total sales were 4,976 shares.

International Nickel gained 1-8 at 8 7-8. Brazilian was 3-8 higher at 11, and Canadian Pacific 1-2 higher at 13 3-4.

On the bond market, National Service Loan, 1936's, dropped $1.25 to $97. Total sales were $40,100, of which Victory, 1933's, unchanged at $100.25, provided the greater part.

TORONTO STOCK EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP).—Trading was at a minimum today on the Toronto Stock Exchange, and most issues were unchanged. Total turnover amounted to only 4,834 shares, and of the 44 issues called for trading, 9 closed higher, 15 lower and 20 unchanged.

TORONTO MINING MARKET

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP).—Leaders in the gold section on the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange continued to show price firmness today, while the base metal and oil lists developed a mixed trend. Price changes were of minor proportion. Sales volume rose to 217,160 shares, 81 issues traded in, 30 closed unchanged, 29 advanced and 22 moved down.

Trading throughout the session centred largely around the precious metal issues. Lake Shore advanced 45c to $28.45; McIntyre rose, 30c to $17.75, and Hollinger at $5.40, and Teck-Hughes at $5 each advanced 5 points. Dome fell 5c to $9.25.

In the oil section speculative interest was lacking. International Petroleum moved up 15c to $10.95, but other issues in the group were listless.

NEW BRUNSWICK ISSUE ANNOUNCED

Flotation of Domestic Loan by Provincial Gov't to Be Watched With Interest

MONTREAL, Jan. 5 (CP).—Offering will be made tomorrow by a Dominion-wide banking and investment house syndicate of $5,062,000 of twenty-year 5 1-2 per cent bonds of the Province of New Brunswick. The issue is being sold at 97 and accrued interest to yield approximately 5 3-4 per cent.

The issue is a domestic loan, payable in Canada only, much along the lines of the recent Dominion Nationaly Service Loan. It is attracting considerable interest in the financial district, as it will serve as a test of the internal market as it exists at present. The syndicate handling the issue is composed of four banks, Bank of Montreal, Royal Bank of Canada, Canadian Bank of Commerce, and Bank of Nova Scotia, and thirteen investment houses.

It is stated by the Government of the province that 60 per cent of the proceeds will be used for refunding operations, while the balance will be available for roads and hospitals.

CARLYLE'S NEPHEW DIES

Alexander Carlyle, a nephew of Thomas Carlyle, and the famous author's secretary in his late years, has died in Edinburgh, Scotland, aged 89. He was a great admirer of his illustrious uncle and did much to perpetuate his memory. He was the donor to the National Library of Scotland of a collection of Carlyle's MSS. and letters, and he published a number of works regarding his uncle, including a new edition of letters, "The New Letters," and "Memorials of Jane Welsh Carlyle." In September, 1929, Carlyle presented a Carlyle statue to the County of Dumfries, and it was unveiled by his granddaughter at Ecclefechan, Carlyle's birthplace.

Several Scotchmen were discussing the domestic unhappiness of a mutual friend.

"Aye," said one, "Jock MacDonald has a sair time wi' that wife o' his. They do say they're aye quarrelin'."

"It serves him richt," said another feelingly. "The puir feckless creature marrit after coortin' only eight year. Man, indeed, he had nae chance to ken the wumman in sic a short time. When I was coortin' I was coortin' twenty year."

"And how did it turn out?" inquired a stranger in the party.

"I tell ye, I was coortin' twenty year, an' in that time I kenned what wumman was, and so I didna marry."

That Body of Yours

MORE ABOUT EMOTIONS AND BLOOD PRESSURE

Perhaps you have found out by consulting your family physician that your blood pressure is high. You've been feeling a little nervous, and the family and business associates have frankly told you that you are irritable.

You find yourself tiring very easily, have a feeling of oppression about the head, and have an occasional dizzy spell.

When you find that your blood pressure is high, you get the idea that your high blood pressure is causing all of the above symptoms.

As a matter of fact, high blood pressure is just a symptom itself, a sign of some disturbance in the system, sometimes physical and sometimes mental.

I have spoken before about Drs. A. Ayman and J. H. Pratt, who, from a study of 100 cases of high blood pressure with the above symptoms, consider it is due to emotional disturbance. Something about the individual and about his surroundings are the cause of the trouble and not any physical defect.

The fact that the emotional disturbance was the cause of the high blood pressure was definitely proven when relief from the above symptoms was obtained in many of the cases by simple, frank and helpful advice about these emotional disturbances; no medicine of many kind was used.

In come cases it was the surroundings of the patient in his home or, at his work that was upsetting him mentally, and thus, of course, upsetting his entire body—digestive system, heart, lungs, and so forth—with the natural result that the blood pressure went up also. The blood pressure simply had to go up in order to keep the proper circulation to all parts of the body.

The symptoms disappeared and the blood pressure came down to normal when the difficulties were removed, or the patient was able to adapt himself to circumstances.

The point then is that high blood pressure—that is, where the pressure continues high—should be investigated, because if there is no organic cause for the high blood pressure—blood vessels, kidneys and so forth—it is very likely due to some emotional disturbance which is upsetting the entire body, the blood pressure included.

"I hate her," he declared.

"Oh, you mustn't say that," said his mother. "The Bible tells us to love everybody."

"Yes, I know," replied the boy, "but Miss Jones wasn't alive when the Bible was written."

"Allow me to present the bill for your food."

"Allow me to present the chemical analysis of the food."

"Good. Let us say no more about it."—Muskete, Vienna.

She—You are not listening to what I am saying.

He—How do you know?

She—I have twice asked you for five pounds for a new hat, and you have said, "Certainly, darling."—Vart Hem, Stockholm.

COUNCIL HOLDS ROUTINE SESSION

Courtenay Preparing for Civic Election—Business Disposed of Without a Hitch

COURTENAY, Jan. 5. — Pending municipal election here on January 14, the City Council's meeting on Monday night was of short duration. The mayor and all aldermen were present and routine business proceeded without a hitch.

A favorable report from the medical health officer, Dr. J. McKee, was received. The action of the mayor and city clerk, in accepting the agreement with the Provincial Government in respect of public work relief, was endorsed by the council. Efficiency of the Courtenay electric service, which, during recent severe storms, has been maintained almost without interruption, was favorably commented on.

In order to allow prospective candidates to present their platform to the ratepayers, it was decided to hold a public meeting in the Gaiety Theatre on Wednesday, January 13. In thanking the aldermen for their co-operation during the past year, Mayor Macintyre said that he hoped the city would always be as fortunate in having such men to serve it.

Died at Nanaimo

NANAIMO, Jan. 5.—Dr. Richard Mason, a retired medical practitioner, who for the past two years has lived in retirement on Seafield Heights Townsite, passed away in the local hospital yesterday. Prior to coming to Nanaimo, Dr. Mason practised for a time on Denman Island. His wife survives. The remains repose at Jenkins' pending removal to Toronto for burial.

NANAIMO COUNCIL IN BRIEF SITTING

Borrowing Authorized for Current Expenses and Lighting System—Police Control Discussed

NANAIMO, Jan. 5.—With Mayor Hall presiding and a full board of aldermen present, the regular meeting of the local council was held last evening.

On motion of Alderman Cavalsky, seconded by Alderman Drake, the city was authorized to borrow $30,000 for current expenses until the 1932 council takes office.

A motion "That a vote of the citizens be taken at the time of the municipal elections as to whether they favor the present police administration or a return to city control" was left over until the next meeting of the council, so that data as to comparative costs of each be obtained.

On motion, it was decided to borrow $8,000 from the Canadian Bank of Commerce to pay for the street lighting system and hypothetical bonds held by the city as security.

Saltspring Weather

SALTSPRING, Jan. 5. — The Saltspring weather report for December shows: Mean temperature for month 38.23, maximum 42.09, minimum 34.38, highest 49.5 on 19th, lowest 27.0 on 1st, 14th and 15th; rain for month 8.63, snow 0.15; rain for year 46.02, snow 1.04; total precipitation 4.06; above average 10.92.

SEEKS RE-ELECTION

NANAIMO, Jan. 5.—In the forthcoming municipal elections Alderman Inkster, whose term expires this year, is seeking re-election, and Alderman Cavalsky, whose term also expires, has not yet decided on his course of municipal action for 1932.

Figures in brackets indicate number of days since freshening.

He was well known to his friends for his weakness for extravagant living and a distinct aversion to paying anybody when he could possibly avoid it; and the other day, having taken and furnished a somewhat sumptuous flat, he invited some of his friends to dinner.

"Don't you think," he asked, proudly, as he was showing them round the place, "that it's rather nicely furnished? Don't you consider I deserve great credit for it?"

"You do," remarked one of the party, dryly, "and I should imagine you've got it, too."

One—"Did you fill your date last night?"

Moore—"I hope so. She ate everything in sight."

GRAND OLD MEN START ARGUMENT

Railroad Veterans Present Claims for Longest Period of Continuous Service

John Caesar, eighty-one, of Vancouver, who as employee and pensioner has been connected with the Canadian Pacific Railway for more than sixty years, remains as the "grand old man of the C.P.R.," but William James Grant, of Hamilton, Ont., has just given him a close run for the honor.

A few weeks ago, when a Vancouver newspaper, referring to Mr. Caesar's "jubilee" pension cheque from the railway, representing sixty years of association with the company, said he held the distinction of being the holder of the longest service record, it raised a storm of protest from railway veterans right across the Dominion.

MANY CLAIMANTS

There were numerous claimants of the "oldest employee" title, but official records still give Mr. Caesar a one-year edge over Mr. Grant, the runner-up.

The records show that Mr. Grant, who from 1911 to 1930 was the popular district freight agent of the C.P.R. in Hamilton, entered the company's service in the "Ambitious City" in 1883, serving continuously thereafter until January 1, 1930, when he was retired on pension. This gives him forty-seven years' active service and forty-nine years, including pension time.

Mr. Caesar, records show, entered the service of the Toronto, Grey & Bruce Railway, later acquired by the C.P.R., in 1873, and continued with the Canadian Pacific until retired in 1917, a total of forty-four years' continuous service. To this, however, he added another four years following official retirement by acting as chief gardener during the Summer season, thereby bringing his total to forty-eight years, and his total time, including pension time, to slightly more than sixty years.

What Today Means

"CAPRICORN"

If January 6 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:30 a.m. to 9 a.m., from 12:30 p.m. to 1:50 p.m., and from 7 p.m. to 8:40 p.m. The danger periods are from 11 a.m. to noon, and from 9:40 p.m. to 11 p.m.

Astrological influences on January 6 should be beneficial in their effect, and many opportunities will be offered for improvement. Where there has been recent illness or disability, the physical health will improve greatly. An auspicious time for starting new ventures.

The child born on this January 6 will be gentle at heart, a lover of the beautiful, and liable to extremes of emotion. It will have a keen artistic sense, but a poor head for business. It will be very affectionate and demonstrative. It will be fond of reading and indifferent to sports.

If born January 6, you are bound to push ahead in life because of the following salient points in your character: pluck, push, patience and perseverance. You are not dependent upon any social status into which you may have been born "to get on" in this world, for you have the qualities within which are essential to real success. You are not fettered by false pride, held back by foolish fears, or weakened by self-indulgence. You are a fighter, and will never take a back seat so long as there is a passage way to the front.

Good principles, courteous manners, a kind heart, a humorous tongue, a generous hand, and a winning smile have endeared you to your associates. To know you is to like you. There may be some who fear you as a competitor, but you are hated by none. You are a square shooter in every phase of life, and an obligation to you is something to be paid in full. You are a quick thinker, and your decisions are followed by actions.

Your horoscope reveals that you will move in some sphere that brings you before many people. You will go more by intellect than intuition—your sense of logic is well developed.

"Oh, I see! And didn't you need your shovel, too?"

Diplomat Leaves Hospital

Unc' Billy Meets His Family

—By THORNTON W. BURGESS—

Because we love the children we bless the little dears,
But, oh, the cares they bring us!
The worries and the fears!
—Ol' Mrs. Possum.

Mrs. Possum ought to know. She had twelve of them, all of the same age, and most mothers think one at a time is quite enough to look after. She had all the care of them, too, for Unc' Billy Possum had had to move out when the children came and had lived, and still was living, by himself in another part of the Green Forest. This suited him, and if the truth be known it had suited Mrs. Possum while the babies were small, for Unc' Billy would have been merely in the way. He would have been of no use at all.

Now, however, it was different. The children were big enough to be active and they were a lively lot. Trying to keep track of all of them and at the same time find enough for them to eat was enough to drive anyone distracted. Mrs. Possum was thin and worried-looking and cross. Do you wonder? Unc' Billy, on the other hand, was fat. There was plenty to eat and he had no worries or cares, no one but himself to think of.

Unc' Billy had not seen his family for some time. He didn't even think about them. He thought of no one but himself, which is likely to be the way with people who live alone. Then one night as he was shuffling along toward the swamp just above the Smiling Pool to look for a Frog or two he heard a strange noise and stopped, for it was coming toward him. The noise was made up of tiny squeaqs and growls with now and then a louder one. In a moment there appeared in a patch of moonlight a queer sight. At first Unc' Billy was startled. What could such a looking animal be?

Then he saw a familiar face, the face of Ol' Mrs. Possum. If her face was familiar her form wasn't. Such a sight as she was! She seemed to have sprouted small heads and tails all over her. She was taking her family out to dinner. Yes, sir, that is what she was doing. Two or three were in her big pocket, and the rest were clinging to her wherever they could get hold of her fur, some on her back and others clinging to her sides. No wonder Unc' Billy hadn't recognized her at first.

"But yo' sent me away yo' own self," protested Unc' Billy in an injured tone

He was tempted to steal away, but Mrs. Possum saw him and came straight toward him. Unc' Billy grinned. It was a feeble kind of a grin, for somehow Ol' Mrs. Possum didn't look as if she were in the best of humor.

"How do yo' do, mah deah?" said he.

Mrs. Possum shook herself and shook hard. Little Possums fell off on all sides where they immediately began to run about and poke inquisitive little noses into everything they found. Those in her big pocket scrambled out.

"How do Ah do? Ah'm worn to a frazzle," replied Mrs. Possum in a fretful voice. "Yes, suh, Ah certainly am worn to a frazzle. Here yo' go off by yo'self and leave me to bring up a family of this size and then yo' come around and ask me how Ah do!"

"But yo' sent me away yo' own self," protested Unc' Billy in an injured tone.

"But Ah didn't tell yo' not to come back," retorted Mrs. Possum. "Yo' might have come once in a while to see how Ah was getting along. Look at these twelve chillun, who don' know their own father, and whose father don' know them. Just yo' look at them."

Unc' Billy was looking. They were a fine looking lot of youngsters and inside of Unc' Billy a feeling of pride was beginning to stir. "Ah never saw a finer family," said he.

Ol' Mrs. Possum sniffed. "No thanks to yo'," said she crossly. "Suppose yo' take them for a while and let me get a little rest."

Unc' Billy hastily backed a few steps. "Ah don't know anything about chillun," he protested hastily. "Yo' know Ah don', mah deah. Ah—Ah—Ah would lose some of them. Ah know Ah would. They don' know me an' they wouldn't stay with me."

Ol' Mrs. Possum grinned. "Ah wouldn't trust them to yo'," said she, whereat Unc Billy sighed with relief. "But the least yo' can do is to stay around and help me find enough fo' them to eat," she added.

Unc' Billy could find no excuse for not doing this much.

The next story: "Unc' Billy's Pride Grows."

Board of Trade Meets

The Saanich Board of Trade held its monthly meeting at the Women's Institute Hall, Brentwood Bay, on Monday evening, Rev. Montagu Bruce in the chair. Favorable reports from the committees on the recent masquerade dance, and the annual dinner, were read. Another dance will be arranged to take place shortly, the funds to go in aid of the children's bathing pool.

A resolution upholding the proposed tag system for hunting deer was endorsed. Five new members were enrolled. At the February meeting, nominations will be in order for the election of officers for 1932, which will take place in March.

BRITONS BUY CHEAPER MEAT

Meat prices have fallen to such an extent in recent months throughout Great Britain that they are now practically down to the prewar level—except for certain choice cuts. This season prices have been greatly affected by large importations from Australia and New Zealand, as well as by the increased supply of home-fed stock. For a period of ten months imports of mutton and lamb increased 20,000 tons.

CULBERTSON on CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

USING THE TOOLS YOU HAVE

In bridge, as in war, victory does not always perch on the banner of the greatest army. Strategy plays an important part in the miniature battle of the pasteboards, as it does in that art the practice of which gave it birth.

As I have pointed out, the four suits in a deck of cards represent four separate armies, and in partnership games the purpose of the partners is to so combine their forces as to accomplish strategic or tactical results; hence it is part of good card play to deceive the opponents as much as possible regarding the location of key cards. Frequently the success of a contract rests wholly upon the outcome of such manoeuvres, as, for instance, in this hand.

Both sides vulnerable.

South—Dealer.

East was playing a contract of four spades, against which South had opened the diamond king. When the dummy was spread on the table, East could count his probable losers as two hearts, one diamond and one club—apparently a defeat of one trick unless by strategy he could turn one of his losers into a winner.

Winning the first trick with the ace of diamonds in the dummy, the queen of clubs was led. Seeing all four hands, this willingness to sacrifice two honors of equal strength on an apparently losing trick seems rathed infutile. However, it proved very effective, as North read the lead of the queen of clubs as an attempt to establish a club in the dummy. He placed the king of clubs in the South hand; otherwise, he reasoned, East would lead a low club.

Misled entirely by the declarer's ruse, North played a small club, and East's singleton king won. Thus in a twinkling the entire picture was changed. Instead of four probable losers, East now had but two, both in the heart suit. Inability to get into dummy would make impractical any attempt to further reduce these losers. East's correct following play, therefore, is to lead a low heart to the ten spot after drawing the adverse trumps, and as the cards are distributed this play must win.

It is quite true that there is nothing certain about the success of the play outlined above, but if this course does not win, the declarer must lose in any event.

The man on a desert island cannot pore over the comprehensive catalogue of one of our leading mail order houses and select the tool best fitted to his use. He must make use of the tools at hand. The same rule applies after the cards are dealt and the contract reached in bridge.

TODAY'S POINTER

Question—What is meant by triple valuation of a hand?

Answer—Any hand must be valued three ways.

1st.—At his own bid.
2nd.—At partner's bid.
3rd.—At opponents' bid.

At own bid count honors and long suits. At partner's bid count honors, short suits and long suits. At opponents' bid count honors and trump tricks.
